Hickey New 49ers' Coach, Hints At Player Shakeup

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Assistant Coach Howard (Red) Hickey today replaced Frankie Albert as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers, was given a three-year contract — and strongly hinted there would be a big shakeup among the players.

"I feel this club has the nucleus to become a winner, but we need help," the 41-year-old Hickey told a news conference.

"How good the club will be will depend upon the type of boys we come up with through our draft; it is my intention to go all out to get the best players and to be the best coach."

Hickey emphasized that each man now on the team would get his chance to prove he has the proper fighting desire. But Hickey also pointed out he would seek strength in players now drafted, in players yet to be drafted—and even by big trading deals.

Albert quit as head coach Friday, saying he loved his family more than football, and could not stand to see his wife and children suffer criticism.

And how will Hickey feel when the boos start?

"It is something I have prepared myself for all my life," Hickey said. "I don't think it will bother me. My family feels the same way I do. I married my high school sweetheart and she knew then I was going to be a coach.

"If she didn't like it then, it's too late now. I don't tell her how to run the house and she doesn't tell me how to coach."

Vic Morabito, principal owner of the 49ers, said this was the first three-year contract given a 49er coach since the Buck Shaw regime.

Morabito said he picked Hickey because "I wanted a pro."

"Hats off to fellows like Sid Gillman (of the Los Angeles Rams) who came up from the college ranks, but I feel you have to have a man within the league who knows the personnel he is playing against and knows what it takes to win."

A University of Arkansas star, Hickey captained the Razorbacks in his senior year and played in the East-West Shrine game. Pittsburgh drafted him and then the Los Angeles Rams bought him.

After service in the Navy, Hickey played end for the Rams from 1941 through 1948, then as a Los Angeles assistant coach from 1949 to 1954, when he was hired as an aide by the late Norman (Red) Strader, head coach for the 49ers.

Hickey and his wife, Celia, live in San Mateo with their three sons, Michael, 12; Patrick, 8, and Jeffrey, 18 months.

'Worst' Southland Brush Fire Rages

Year's Biggest Blaze Burns 46,000 Acres

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO (AP)—California's worst brush fire of the year broke through fire lines on two fronts today.

The breaks came in higher elevations where bulldozers and pumps have been unable to operate.

The fire, now in its third day, already has burned over 46,000 acres of watershed and grazing land. State forestry official Elmer Osterman predicts the flames will consume 60,000 acres before the 2,000 men battling on the lines bring it under control.

The breakthroughs came in high rugged terrain 18 miles northeast and 12 miles east of this historic mission village.

No homes are in any immediate danger, Osterman said.

Winds today were somewhat slackier than yesterday, but Osterman said gusts up to 45 m.p.h. are expected tonight and tomorrow.

Eighteen homes and cabins, plus other smaller buildings, have been destroyed.

Crusade Must Try Again Or Go Broke

The United Bay Area Crusade, just winding up one fund campaign, must start another by March 1 or go broke.

This assertion is contained in a statement by Samuel B. Stewart, chairman of the five-county crusade's board of governors, released today with approval of the UBAC executive committee.

Late returns are still trickling in from the 1958 campaign, which started in October. But the forecast is that the total will not exceed 86 per cent of the $10,120,000 goal. Last year, the crusade raised $10,330,000.

NOT A FAILURE

Stewart refused to term the crusade's showing a failure. "A campaign which raises more than 10 million dollars in a single annual drive cannot be termed a failure," he said.

He proposed a five-point program which would, in effect, mean a virtually continuous fund drive through 1959. Its points:

1. Establish the 1959 fund drive as the top priority in every agency drawing funds from the crusade. (There has been criticism within the fund-raising organization that some agencies give priority to their own supplemental campaigns.)
2. "Shelve all organizational changes or jurisdictional disputes which could interfere with campaign success."

CAMPAIGN LEADER

3. Fill the campaign chairmanship by Dec. 31 "with the chief executive of a large corporation, or with a younger man of recognized ability and connections."
4. Name a committee at once to set the goal for the 1959 drive before March 1.
5. Constitute the executive committee as the campaign committee of 1959, and establish a sponsors' committee of 100 corporation and labor leaders.

Stewart admitted it had been suggested the five-county crusade be abandoned, to "let each county fund organization struggle with its own problem."

But he argued that "a return to separate county campaigns would create enormous confusion among donors, jeopardize cooperation with firm payroll deduction systems, disrupt publicity media and engender competitive multiple solicitations."

STEPPED SLOPES

Western, southern and easterly lines were generally holding. Steepness of the canyon slopes kept men and equipment from getting in to fight the raging northern area of the fire.

Two miles of 15-foot-high brush and scrub oak separated the fire from Trabuco Canyon, a resort area containing more than 200 homes. There was no immediate threat there, a spokesman said, nor to 60 other houses in Holy Jim and Upper Trabuco canyons.

Fire crews battled the blaze in three counties. It started in Riverside County, burned west into Orange County and reached county toward San Diego County.

NEAR AIR STATION

On the west the flames were within five miles of El Toro Marine Air Station. Southward, the flames neared the Marine Corps' Camp Pendleton.

Marine volunteers from both posts, soldiers from Ft. MacArthur and firemen from all three counties are helping U.S. Forest Service and state Division of Forestry crews on the lines.

Suspect In Drug 'Farm' Pleads Guilty

Salvador Roberts Sorro, 28-year-old former Larkspur student, pleaded guilty today to having marijuana in his home in January, 1957.

Sorro and his wife were arrested after officers found a thriving marijuana crop growing under a sun lamp in the basement of their Larkspur home.

Sorro had denied the charge and asked for a trial, but this morning he switched his plea to guilty before Judge Jordan L. Martinielli in Marin Superior Court, and admitted a prior narcotics conviction in San Francisco in 1954.

A report from the probation office and sentencing is set for 10 a.m. Jan. 5. Sorro's attorney, A. P. O'Neil of San Francisco, asked for probation. Dist. Atty. W. O. Weissich objected, on grounds that a man with a prior felony conviction is not eligible.

Attorney O'Neil asked the court to strike the prior conviction from the record.

Sorro's 27-year-old wife, Maryle Ruth, was also charged with the same offense. Her trial was held up because she was expecting a child.

County Won't Help Pay For School Guards

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today eliminated use of county money to pay salaries of school crossing guards, starting next July 1.

By 3-to-2 vote, the supervisors first eliminated any county pay for school crossing guards within incorporated cities. Then followed a second resolution ending at the completion of school year, the county's guard on South Novato boulevard near Lynwood School. At the same time, the board indicated the county's willingness to help finance adequate signals at "appropriate" crossings.

Administrator Donald A. Jensen submitted a lengthy report on the school crossing guard situation which touched off a bitter exchange among the supervisors.

Jensen said school safety patrols provided the best and cheapest protection of crossings, and electric signals are much less expensive and more effective than paid crossing guards.

Only six schools in Marin use such guards, he reported. Lynwood School's in Novato is paid for fully by the county. The Neil Cummins School guard at Tamalpais and Eastman in Corte Madera is paid for 80 per cent by the county and 20 per cent by the city. Isabel Cook School guard at Sir Francis Drake boulevard is paid for 60 per cent by the county and 40 per cent by the city of San Anselmo. San Rafael pays the full cost for guards at Coleman and Short Schools. Ross has recently agreed to pay for a guard at

Larkspur Business Project Detailed

Plans for development of a new addition to the Larkspur downtown shopping section were disclosed to property owners and members of the Larkspur Chamber of Commerce last night by two Berkeley developers.

A three-fold plan would call for: (1) construction of a large supermarket on the Joseph B.

Rice family property east of Rice lane; (2) creation of a 114-car parking lot around the market; (3) construction of new store fronts along Rice lane for 15 business houses which face Magnolia avenue with rear entrances on the lane.

About three dozen persons were at the city hall meeting. Developers presenting the plans were Frank E. Cox and Max W. Walden, both of Berkeley.

Cox said the development would be similar to that of the California avenue shopping district in Palo Alto and to that he developed in Los Gatos.

Cox told the merchants he thought the Larkspur downtown area might die unless some such improvement is undertaken. He said he believed merchants gaining new fronts from the development would be able to do their own financing of the improvements on the basis of expected increase in volume.

Rice urged the proposal as of benefit for the merchants as well as for the Rice family. The market would be located on the former site of the Rice residence. There are now several residences and a former drayage company building on the block, which runs from Ward to Cane streets and extends from Rice lane to the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right of way.

The development would not include the property occupied by the Larkspur Rose Bowl, Rice said.

Oakley Dexter, chamber of commerce president, said another meeting to discuss the proposal will be held early next month.

Last HAFB Fliers Expected Home

Last members of the 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron to leave Formosa are expected back at Hamilton Air Force Base tonight or tomorrow, a base spokesman said today.

The 83rd was ordered to Formosa in September, at the height of tension over the offshore China islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

The first group returned Dec. 8. A second group landed last Thursday.

About 30 men, including Col. John W. Bennett, squadron commander, are in the final unit.

More Of Same Weather Forecast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Fair weather through tomorrow with continued mild temperatures was forecast today for California's northern and central counties.

Temperatures have been running as much as 20 degrees above normal for the season in the San Joaquin Valley, and from 10 to 15 degrees above normal on the central coast and over the north interior.

Chessman Comes 'Home' Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Author-convict Caryl Chessman will be returned to his Death Row cell at San Quentin Prison tomorrow, it was announced today.

Chessman, who was sentenced to death in 1948 for kidnapping with bodily harm, has spent the past several weeks in the county jail where the transcript of his original trial was reviewed and certain corrections made.

Our Drinking Habits 64-Proof Question: When To Say 'When'

By HOWARD WHITMAN

According to the temperance people the best time to say "when" is before a drop of the stuff reaches your lips.

On the other hand, many doctors feel a nip now and then is good for some people; psychologists are inclined to accept the moderate drink as a tension reliever; wine is even a part of some sacred services.

In the Bible one finds quotes which have been used on both sides.

Good or bad, drinking is one of man's oldest customs. "Nearly every society has had its alcoholic beverage," comments Dr. Leon Greenberg, director of the Yale Laboratory of Applied Biodynamics.

Why? What draws the human race to alcohol?

Here is one doctor's opinion:

"Alcohol's effects are potent and prompt; under its influence, friendships ripen, social barriers are broken down, the pauper thinks himself a king, embarrassment is unknown, and anxiety flees. In short, alcohol increases self-confidence by relieving concern, fear, and doubt of self." (Dr. Jackson A. Smith, Nebraska Psychiatric Institute, Omaha.)

He is speaking, of course, of mild drinking. Anyone knows that too much alcohol (for some people six drinks, for some people two) impairs function. Hence the stagger, the slurred speech, the double vision of drunkenness.

So—for the two out of three adults who form our drinking population the 64 Proof Question is When To Say When.

It's not simple. A TV commentator conducted this test: He gave a man a driving test, recorded the score, then gave the man two drinks and had him take the test again. To his monumental embarrassment the man had a better score after the drinks!

"I could have told him that might happen," Yale's Dr. Greenberg comments. "The driver, at the start, was in a strange situation and nervous. After a couple of drinks he calmed down and made a better score than he had the first time."

The TV incident suggests the conclusion that any lowering of powers of motor and sensory coordination are counter-balanced by the reduction of nervousness.

However, as with most tranquilizers, there are side-effects. Quickly the emotional relaxation blends into over-confidence, impairment of judgment and loss of the protective sense of fear.

Thus the driver, even if he

NATO Rejects Soviet Proposals For Berlin

PARIS (AP)—The Atlantic Pact foreign ministers tonight rejected Soviet proposals for West Berlin but said they are ready to discuss all East-West issues with the Russians.

In a communique issued at the end of the first day of meetings, the 15 NATO ministers said:

"The council considers that the Berlin question can only be settled in the framework of an agreement with the U.S.S.R. on Germany as a whole."

"It recalls that the Western powers have repeatedly declared themselves ready to examine this problem, as well as those of European security and disarmament. They are still ready to discuss all these problems."

The communique did not say at what level the West was ready to negotiate.

Earlier U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told his colleagues in the North Atlantic council that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will not risk war over Berlin. "Therefore we can proceed with confidence," Dulles asserted. He added:

"We must not give an appearance of success to a bold and reckless move."

San Rafael Chamber Lists 3 Major Accomplishments During Past Year

In a preliminary report on accomplishments of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce this year, president Fred F. Enemark notes these three as the chamber's biggest strides:

1. "The most vital item of all is our closer relationship with the San Rafael City Council and the county board of supervisors. Their financial support is deeply appreciated as is the mutual recognition and cooperation on needed community projects," Enemark said.

2. City improvements: off-street parking lot, removal of buildings that were fire and health hazards, improvements in traffic patterns, street lighting and paving, near completion of a flood control system in the city's low-lying areas and completion of the city's general plan.

3. Establishment of the Marin Visitors Bureau to attract tourists to the county, and issuance of two tourist-promotion brochures.

A full report on the chamber's 1958 activities will be issued Jan. 23, Enemark said.

THE PG AND E CO., we hear, is considering designating all its trucks as "Volts Wagons."

TO OUR DESK this week came a booklet entitled "The outlook for business for the first six months of 1959," published by the First National Bank of Chicago. Predictions for various segments of the economy, written by leaders in those fields, included these statements in summary:

Steel industry (by Joseph L. Block, president, Inland Steel Co.)—"I believe steel ingot production in the first half of 1959 will aggregate between 55 and 58 million tons as compared with approximately 47 million tons in the last half of 1958. Although the second half of next year might start out on a reduced basis as a result of either a strike or the previous buying in anticipation of a possible strike, I am inclined to believe that steel production in that period will be at about the same level as in the first six months."

Credit and interest rates (by Edward E. Brown, board chairman, First National Bank of Chicago) — "On the whole, I think the forecast for tighter money or easier money will counter-balance each other and interest rates for both short and long term loans will stay about where they are now for the next nine months."

Aircraft and missiles industry (by Donald W. Douglas Jr., president, Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc.)—"During the past year industry employment declined from 982,000 to 743,000. We expect that it will level out at about 750,000 for the next several months. Our industry foresees a stable six months ahead, barring international complications, and looks beyond June 30 to a steady acceleration of the nation's missiles and space-age programs."

Electric utility industry (by Willis D. Gale, chairman, Commonwealth Edison Co.)—"If we continue to be reasonably successful in our battle against inflation, I expect the first half of 1959 to be good for the electric utility industry."

Merchandising (by Charles H. Kellstadt, president, Sears Roebuck and Co.)—"Moderate improvement in sales of consumer durable goods is expected... major household durables should experience above-average gains... sales of non-durables will increase steadily... probable easing of food prices may augment spending for other types of goods... the outlook for retail sales is one of continued advance with the possibility of the rate of increase over 1958 slowing up by the end of the first half... prices may begin turning upward again under the pressure of rising raw material costs and stepped-up increases in wage rates."

Food (by Franklin J. Lundberg, board chairman, Jewel Tea Co., Inc.)—"Food prices at the retail store should average somewhat less in the first half of 1959 than in the comparable period of 1958, according to present indications. The decline should be most noticeable for pork and poultry and probably also for fresh fruits and vegetables if weather is favorable. While the decline should not be large, it should be helpful to consumers by making it possible for them to look ahead with greater certainty than usual that their plans will not be upset by sharply rising food costs."

Construction industry (by H. C. Turner Jr., president, Turner Construction Co.)—"For 1959: highways will continue up. Housing, largely because of limited money supply and less attractive terms, will do well to hold its own. Commercial building will be little if any higher."

'CHRISTMAS PRESENT'—Elmer V. Whitehair of 205 Monte Vista, Larkspur, received an early "Christmas present" yesterday: Promotion to major in the Army Signal Corps. Whitehair is signal officer for Pacific Transportation Terminal Command with headquarters at Ft. Mason. His wife, Alice Jane, teaches school in Dixie District.

Educational Benefits Held Basis Of Merger Decision

Educational benefits, rather than tax savings, should be the basis of decision on whether to merge Novato and San Jose School Districts, a handful of residents attending a hearing on the merger was told last night by a Novato school trustee.

"There are two sets of figures estimating what the tax situation will be after unification," said Trustee Earl Marshall. "I hesitate to support either."

"Five years from now, today's taxes are apt to look small."

Marshall urged that educational benefit "is the only valid basis upon which unification can be judged."

Last night's hearing was the third and last of a series on the merger issue. Nobody except school officials appeared for the first. The second drew an audience of about a dozen. Ten, besides school officials, showed up last night at Novato High School.

Rex Silvernale, vice chairman of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, declared: "We're not talking about a program for today, but about 10 or 20 years from now. People are inclined to think about their immediate problems and vote with their hearts instead of their minds."

Edwin L. Blackmore, assistant county superintendent of schools, explained that should unification be favored by a majority vote in each of the two districts, the new district would become effective July 1, 1959. Should the voters turn down unification, he said, the county committee could decide to hold another election within one year, without approval by the state Board of Education.

But Silvernale warned: "The opportunity to vote on this may not come again for a long, long time. There are some areas in the county where there is great interest in unification, but where an election may never come about."

Mellon To Head S.F. Police Board

Thomas J. Mellon of 4 Rock road, Kent Woodlands, was elected president of the San Francisco Police Commission yesterday.

Mellon was not present at the commission's meeting as his fellow commissioners, Harold R. McKinnon and Paul A. Bissinger, voted him the presidency. Both McKinnon and Bissinger have previously served as president.

Mellon maintains his legal "residence" at 1217 Church street, San Francisco, which makes him eligible to serve on a San Francisco city board. He is vice president of Wesic Electric Co. in San Francisco.

Higher Ross School Tax Seen Likely

Ross School District trustees looked into the future last night and foresaw the possibility of boosting the district tax rate when the present 10-year limit of $1.60 per $100 assessed valuation expires in June of 1961.

The matter will be discussed more fully at subsequent meetings, but the consensus last night was that an increase will be required, said Supt. Stephen L. Parodi. The tax rate will revert to 90 cents if no action is taken in 1961.

Parodi said trustees expressed a desire to raise sufficient funds to insure continuance of small classes, French and Spanish language instruction, adequate teacher salaries and speech, instrumental music and after-school recreation programs.

Trustees were advised by Parodi that the Ross district, which 10 years ago had the highest tax rate (1.35) of any elementary district in the county, now rests in fifth place with its $1.60 rate. District with higher rates are Dixie, Kentfield, Reed and Sausalito.

In other matters last night, the Ross school board:

1. Learned that Ross Grammar School pupils averaged one grade level above the median in standardized language, arithmetic and reading tests given last month. Parodi said this was an improvement over last year's results.

2. Received copies of the Marin County Grand Jury report on public school education in the county, but postponed discussion of the report until the next meeting.

Marinwood Plan Amended To Provide More School Space

The Marinwood master plan was amended by the Marin County Planning Commission yesterday to provide additional acreage for future school sites needed by Dixie School District.

Revised school population projections indicated that land required for an upper grade school or junior high school site exceeded the acreage available under the master plan, which showed a combined upper grade and elementary school on 20 acres at Las Gallinas avenue and Miller Creek road.

Chemist Admits Shooting Of German Student

BERKELEY (AP)—A jealous husband shot a German student to death in a University of California physics laboratory early today in the belief the man was his wife's lover.

The victim of five shots, fired at close range in a laboratory, was Wolfgang Ludwig Marx, 26, of Herrnhut, Germany.

John W. Hampton, 31, a Ph.D. chemist with the Shell Development Corp., was jailed on suspicion of murder.

WIFE COLLAPSES

Hampton's blonde wife, Madeleine, 29, mother of three small children, collapsed when she learned of the shooting. She was placed under a doctor's care.

Police Sgt. Robert Ludden said Hampton surrendered without resistance and related this story:

"Marx had come from Germany in 1956 as a foreign student. It was my wife's idea to invite an exchange student in to our home.

"Soon after he arrived an affair began between Marx and Madeleine.

"My wife confessed it to me. Marx left our home and went into the Army. But when he came back, in September, they started again. I decided to shoot him."

Hampton said Marx, a research assistant in electronics, did not show up at his apartment last night.

"I was drinking at my home until about 11," Hampton was quoted. "I had four or five martinis. Then I went looking for Marx with the intention of killing him."

Hampton said he searched the laboratory building where Marx was working on an electronics research job.

AIMED AT HEART

"He came into the hallway and we met face to face approximately 6 to eight feet apart," Hampton continued. "I drew my gun, which I had stuck under my belt, cocked it and shot at Marx, aiming at heart. I can't recall how many shots I fired at his body."

"After he fell to the floor I walked forward and fired at his head from about six feet."

A janitor, Anthony Santana, heard the shots and found Marx lying dead in the cluttered physics laboratory, where complex electronic machines still were humming.

Santa notified police and Sgt. George T. Martin caught Hampton in an adjacent light well, where he said he was looking for the gun he had dropped as he fled.

Hampton and his wife have three sons—Jim, 5; Jack, 3, and Bill, 1.

Judge Bars Extradition Of Bonelli

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Judge Miguel Lazal Fuentes turned thumbs down today on the U. S. State Department request for extradition of William G. Bonelli, former member of the state Board of Equalization.

Judge Fuentes' decision was based on two grounds: The three-year statute of limitations on bribery in Mexico had expired before Bonelli was arrested, and punishment for bribery in the United States is not the same as it is in Mexico, a condition for extradition.

The judge's decision will be sent to the Foreign Relations Ministry today for a decision by Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

The president is not bound to follow the judge's decision but almost always does so.

Bonelli was sought to answer an indictment by a Riverside County grand jury for bribery. Bonelli probably will be freed as soon as the decision is formally delivered to the Foreign Relations Ministry.

Bonelli, who showed up at the federal courthouse in blue denim trousers and jacket of the prison, and with a checkered sport shirt talked freely with reporters.

"This whole thing started with my making some people pay some taxes they didn't want to pay," he said.

Bonelli said he had no plans for the immediate future except to "live as I like and do as I please, not as my enemies elect."

Terra Linda Recreation Survey Done

Seven subcommittees studying various phases of Terra Linda's recreational needs and possibilities have completed their work and are preparing their findings for reports to the public.

After public discussion, the subcommittee findings will be combined with plans and cost estimates and presented to the directors of the area's community services district.

The Terra Linda Community Services District may then present a proposal based on the reports to the voters as a bond issue for financing of recreation facilities and program.

J. R. Gunn is chairman of the steering committee for the recreation survey. Subcommittee chairmen are Don Vial, general recreation; Frederick Thon, cultural and educational uses of recreation facilities; Dr. Arthur Ablin, swimming; Fred Mehrten, building; Don Black, legal-financial; Ray Newitt, custodial, and Robert A. Gaven, available lands.

GEN. CHU TEH
Mao's successor?

Reds Report Mao Will Step Down

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Red China's government notified foreign diplomats in Peiping today that Mao Tse-tung will step down next month as the government chairman, diplomatic sources said.

Foreign Minister Chen Yi was reported to have announced Mao's coming retirement from the chairmanship, equivalent to the presidency, at an informal briefing of ambassadors, ministers, and charge d'affaires credited to Peiping.

He told them, however, that Mao would remain as chief of the Communist Party.

Telegrams reaching Warsaw said Chen had told the envoys that Mao had decided not to present himself for re-election when his current term as chairman of the government expires in January.

The decision was presented as entirely voluntary and not as being forced on Mao by a hostile meeting of the Communist party Central Committee, as reported during the weekend by Chinese Nationalist sources on Formosa.

Nationalist sources predicted Mao would be replaced by Gen. Chu Teh.

Matador Missiles Reach South Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Matador guided missiles have been brought in to South Korea, the United Nations Command said today.

The announcement, in answer to a press query, noted the Matador can be armed with an atomic warhead.

The announcement did not say whether nuclear warheads had been brought in with the Matador.

Baghdad Mobs Hurl Mud At U.S. Official

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—William M. Rountree, U.S. assistant secretary of state, was to hold talks today with Iraqi officials despite a violent reception from street mobs who threw mudballs, eggs and a rock at him.

Rountree was greeted yesterday by "go home" howls from thousands. The limousine he was riding in was splattered with mud and a window cracked by the rock. He was unharmed.

Many of the youths in the mobs apparently had been led to believe that Rountree came to try to resurrect the pro-Western royal government which was overthrown July 14 by a military coup.

Rountree's schedule included a talk with the leader of the coup, Premier Abdel Karim Kassem.

He is scheduled to leave Thursday, after staying longer than originally planned. He has toured Middle Eastern nations for the past week.

A violent anti-American campaign, partly fomented by the powerful Iraqi Communist party, has been under way in Iraq for weeks.

The United States thus far is identified in the popular mind here with Premier Nuri Said, who died in the July revolt that destroyed King Faisal's pro-Western regime.

Russ Save 4 Belgians At South Pole

BRUSSELS (AP)—A Soviet pilot found four Belgian explorers who crashed in the Antarctic and flew them back to their home base today.

Moscow Radio said, "All four are well."

The four are members of the Belgian expedition taking part in the International Geophysical Year. They took off Dec. 6 to establish a scientific station. They crash-landed their small plane in the Crystal Mountains.

The nearest large expedition was the Soviet one.

Nikita Blames Exiled 5 For Agricultural Lag

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has hurled a bitter new attack at the Malenkov-Molotov "anti-party," blaming it for major shortcomings in Soviet agriculture.

Khrushchev's new blast, made at a meeting yesterday of the Soviet Communist Party's Central Committee, came after a new press campaign against the five high officials Khrushchev toppled from power in the Kremlin shakeup in July, 1957.

Accounts of the speech today in Tass, the Soviet news agency, gave no indication of whether further measures would be taken against the five men—ex-Premiers Georgi Malenkov and Nicolai Bulganin, former Foreign Ministers V. M. Molotov and Dimitri Shepilov and former economic czar Lazar Kaganovich. All have been banished to obscure posts in the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev claimed Malen-kov, Molotov and their disgraced associates:

1. "Tried to stifle the patriotic movement for catching up with the United States in per capita production of livestock produce."

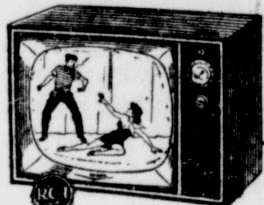

2. Opposed the virgin lands project, a pet Khrushchev scheme which he boasted had proved the key factor in bringing a record grain production of 140 million tons this year.

3. Attempted to "revise the party's general Leninist line on basic issues of the country's development." In this he said they "failed ingloriously."

4. "Stubbornly opposed for a number of years the realization of important measures in agriculture and thereby retarded the development of the Soviet economy."

The group, he continued, was responsible for "the difficult situation in agriculture that developed by 1953."

HALF AND HALF PROJECT

Airline hostess Sally Dorr started gathering a San Francisco tan on the right side of her body yesterday, and after it has been examined and calibrated by a dermatologist Sally will hie to Miami Beach, where she will expose the other half to the sunshine of Florida. "It is hoped," said the publicist sponsoring the dual project, "that this will settle once and for all the conflicting claims of the two 'sunshine' states." Two Corte Madera businesses were entered and $20 in cash taken from each Sunday night, reported Police Chief Frank L. Nelson.

A window at the rear of Brown-Ely Co.'s office at Meadowsweet drive and Highway 101 was broken and a cash box containing about $20 was taken, said Chief Nelson.

Richards' Garden Supply at 504 Tamalpais drive was entered by prying open a side door. Missing from the cash register this morning was $20, said owner Norman Richards.

A Richmond-San Rafael Bridge commute book from the Brown-Ely cash box was found on the floor of Richards' store, said Chief Nelson.

2 Tracts Get Conditional Go-Ahead

Tentative maps of two proposed subdivisions, Kay Park Unit 3 in Tamalpais Valley and Sleepy Hollow Unit 8 near San Anselmo, were given conditional approval yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The commission's staff, in a written report, described the 2.9-acre site for the 11-lot Kay Park development as "at best a marginal site."

"This area," said the report, "is in an old borrow pit with high, steep and possibly unstable banks and poor orientation."

But because of the history of property sales in the area and the prior fixing of roads by easement, the staff said it had "no alternative but, reluctantly, to recommend approval."

SEVERAL CONDITIONS
The commission imposed a string of conditions in giving its blessing to the map. One of these requires construction of retaining walls, where necessary, "in order to provide adequate building sites."

Golden Gate Homes, Inc., submitted the map, which shows all lots containing a minimum of 7,500 square feet and none less than 60 feet in average width. One new street will be built. The site is south of Marin Avenue and north and west of Richardson way.

Sleepy Hollow Unit 8 will consist of 16 lots on 7.2 acres west of Tarry road and north of Sleepy Hollow 7, according to the tentative map submitted by developer Harold D. Lang and approved with a minimum of discussion. The lots will have a 15,000-square-foot minimum and an average width of at least 90 feet.

Several conditions were imposed, including a requirement for a 10-foot drainage easement along the rear of seven of the lots.

The commission also:
1. Postponed to Jan. 5 action on Kenney Development Co.'s request for permission to erect a 300-square-foot sign, advertising Kenney's new Terra Linda Oaks subdivision, at the entrance to Terra Linda.

2. Granted Rickard's Arcade a permit to erect three signs on the front of the face of a shopping center arcade building at Terra Linda Shopping Center, Del Gado road and Manuel T. Freitas parkway.

3. Granted Robert G. Cruickshank, 3185 Paradise drive, Tiburon, an adjustment permitting division of a parcel fronting Paradise drive and Tredgore road into two building sites, each having less than the required one acre.
4. Approved, subject to final review by Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr., architectural plans submitted by Vertis D. Spigner of Marin City for a lunch counter to be located west of Highway 101 in the Manzanita district.

5. Continued to Jan. 5 consideration of a petition by Patricia A. Brooks and others for special zoning regulations in a downtown Tiburon duplex district on either side of Centro West street.
6. Approved architectural plans submitted by Maxwell J. Ramos for an addition to be used for furniture store at 276 Shoreline highway, Tamalpais Valley, subject to staff determination of adequate parking space and final review by Commissioner George Scott.

7. Postponed to Jan. 5 further consideration of R. N. Clayton's request for approval of plans for an apartment house proposed for the northeast corner of Rowland and South Novato boulevards, Novato. Clayton, San Rafael real estate man, appeared in behalf of builder P. F. Williams of San Anselmo, owner of the property.

8. Granted developer Rudy Lang a permit to excavate the top of a knoll in the Lynwood area east of South Novato boulevard for earth fill to complete grading of Lynwood Terrace subdivision.

9. Learned that the county public works department will be asked to permit excavation on the site of Novato's old Grant avenue school for fill to be used for a trailer court being built by David Bellucci on Olive avenue, Novato.

10. Took an unofficial straw vote indicating 4-2 approval of Brooks Hinton's application for duplex rezoning on a half-acre parcel at 11 South Knoll road, Strawberry. In October, with Commissioner George Ludy absent, the official vote was 3-2 for approval, which constituted denial because rezoning requires at least a two-thirds favorable vote. The board of supervisors requested yesterday's informal action to learn how the full commission felt. Ludy said he is "definitely in favor of rezoning."

11. Approved architectural plans submitted by Robert Landis for a 12-unit, three-story apartment house to be constructed at 909 Camino Alto, just beyond the Mill Valley city limit.

SUPERVISORS OFFICIALLY END COUNTY'S WAR ON WILDLIFE

The Armistice was signed at 11:05 a.m. today. Black and white and ringed tails waved together as skunks and raccoons paraded arm in arm down woodland trails. Cheers of the county's animal lovers echoed in their ears.

Marin County's month-old bounty on skunks, raccoons and foxes had ended.

The county had paid $1 each for tails of six foxes, 83 skunks and 93 raccoons. And there will be a few more. In passing the resolution rescinding the bounty law, the supervisors are permitting animals killed prior to 11:05 today to qualify for the bounty. Persons with tails of these kills can collect, providing they will affirm they were killed before the deadline.

Action by the supervisors today was by a 4 to 0 vote. Having missed the deluge of protests, William Gnos, who has been in the east attending a Farm Bureau convention, abstained.

Bolinas avenue and Sir Francis Drake boulevard for Ross School.

Jensen said not only is it not fair to pay some cities for crossing guards and not others, but because the cities keep 100 per cent of their sales taxes, they should pay the cost anyway.

Supervisor William Gnos was bitterly opposed to abandoning the crossing guard payment at Lynwood School.

"I don't think it's fair to the unincorporated areas. We pay sales tax too. About the only thing we get out of it is roads and school crossing guards. Now you're taking some of that away," he asserted.

Supervisor William D. Fusselman, agreeing with Gnos, lashed out at abandonment of the paid guard policy, the County Supervisors Assn. and any suggestion that the cities should split their sales tax with the counties.

Supervisor Vera Schultz joined the fracas, eventually to get in a motion that Jensen's recommendations be accepted.

Fusselman tried to delay the vote until budget time but no one backed him up. So the vote found Fusselman and Gnos voting against a majority of three.

"At last we have a consistent policy on school crossing guards," sighed Mrs. Schultz. "That's a matter of opinion," shot back Fusselman.

Boy Hurt In Fall

Matthew Smith, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Smith of 11 Evergreen drive, Kentfield, fell from a swing at St. Anselm's School in San Anselmo yesterday afternoon and suffered a head injury. He was released from Marin General Hospital today in good condition.

DRINKING

did do better on a TV test, would be a danger on the road. He would take chances that he wouldn't have taken without the drinks.

And, of course, with more drinking his motor and sensory coordination would start sagging until he couldn't even physically control a car — on or off TV.

So for the person who is going to drive the answer to When to Say When is obvious; it's before he starts.

For the social drinker it's another question. Can he simply enjoy liquor as that "relief from cares" without going overboard?

The answer is a matter of chemistry. Normally the body burns up, or oxidizes, up to an ounce of whiskey per hour. Anyone drinking this much would be eliminating it at the same rate he was imbibing it. Theoretically he could go right on glowing indefinitely.

However, anxieties are ornery things. You quiet them down with one drink but they just won't stay quiet. They want another. Which means George doesn't say when he ought to. His anxieties keep nagging their way back and he has to toss them more and more anesthetic. Soon the body's ability to oxidize is overwhelmed by the spirit's refusal to be tranquilized. Result: One drunk.

If alcohol could be regarded as a food (and it is a food) there'd be no addiction problem.

Drinking can be satisfying and pleasurable, just as eating is, without being addicting. The crucial question is: Why does one drink? If he drinks to escape life by anesthetizing his feelings, then drink is no longer food. It is medicine. And the wrong medicine. For him the time to say when is immediately.

Next: The Teen-Age Drinker.

Thursday Funeral For Homer Cates

Funeral services will be held Thursday for Homer Franklin Cates, who was one of the original Army Air Service pilots in World War I and who operated a tailor shop at an air base when taken by death.

Cates, 69, died in a police car en route to San Rafael General Hospital Sunday afternoon. He had suffered from a heart condition.

Funeral services will be at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael, with burial in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Cates formerly operated a tailor shop on Fourth street in San Rafael. Then he opened a shop at Hamilton Air Force Base, which he was operating until his death.

Gun Wound Fatal To Novato Rancher

Lloyd Linwood Lieb, 68-year-old Novato rancher, died last night at Marin General Hospital from a gunshot wound on his left arm and chest, apparently self-inflicted.

Deputy Sheriff Harold Goerndt found Lieb lying on the floor of his home at 1521 Hill road, his left arm partly shot off and wounds in his left chest.

The victim's son, Wilford Henry Lieb, said he was working outside in the yard. His mother had gone upstairs, leaving his father alone downstairs. About 3 p.m., they heard an explosion and found Lieb lying on the bathroom floor.

The elder Lieb died in the hospital about five hours later.

The younger Lieb told officers his father had been released from a sanitarium in Belmont where he had been treated for a nervous condition. He was scheduled to re-enter the sanitarium today.

The victim has another son who attends Oregon State College. Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Daughter Of Marinite Dies

Funeral services will be conducted at Cyril McDonald's Twin Chapels, Vallejo, at 2 p.m. tomorrow, with Dr. Bernard Montgomery of the First Presbyterian Church of Vallejo officiating. Burial will be in Sunrise Memorial Cemetery.

Walter D. Lynch Rites Thursday

Lynch, who resided at the Mission Inn in San Rafael, is survived by two sons, Walter Jr. of Fairfax and Edwin, now in military service. He was a native of Vermont. Lynch was a member of Operating Engineers Union Local 3 in San Rafael. He had lived 18 years in Marin County.

Katherine Hunter Of Mill Valley Dies

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a brother, John W. Martin of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Spinetti of Jackson.

Private family services will be held tomorrow at the Russell and Gooch Chapel in Mill Valley. Friends may call at the chapel until 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Stinson Drowning Victim Identified

The body washed ashore at Stinson Beach Saturday was that of Quillie Harold Brown, not Harold Brown Quillie, as tentatively identified, Coroner Frank J. Keaton said today.

Other facts came to light as sheriff's deputies and the coroner continued their investigation of the death.

Brown, 42, was a native and former resident of Clarksburg, W. Va. He was last employed in Cleveland, Ohio. He left there less than two weeks ago on his way to the West Coast, according to his sister, Mrs. Marie Karaffa of Pittsburg, Contra Costa County, who had been expecting word from him. "There is no apparent reason why he was in the water," Keaton declared.

An autopsy disclosed drowning as the cause of death and indicated the body had been in the water since Dec. 7. A further medical examination will be made to determine whether Brown had been drinking when he met his fate.

In addition to his sister, survivors are his mother, Mrs.

Mattie Brown of Weirton, W. Va.; a son, Quillie Harold Brown Jr., 11, and two other sisters in West Virginia. The body will be forwarded to the Caruso Funeral Home at Pittsburg.

Rapid Transit District Flirts With Trouble In Re-elections

We were sorry to see the Bay Area Rapid Transit District directors establish a policy of re-electing its president. Last week's election was the first since the district organized a year ago. There was a chance to set a precedent of either re-electing or not re-electing. Precedent was set. A president was re-elected.

Basis for the decision by the nominating committee was that in the young district "experience is of first importance." This is an easy stand to take. In some degree it makes sense.

But in replacing a president, a district does not lose the services of the out-going officer. He is still on the board and his experience can often be put to excellent use as the chairman of a key committee. Meanwhile, the top spot can be rotated among the communities which make up a district of this type.

The reason we are particularly unhappy is the experience of the district's predecessor, the Bay Area Rapid Transit Commission. The commission got into the re-election habit. Its first chairman was an effective and hard-working leader, so they re-elected him—and re-elected him.

Then he became ill. Both his effectiveness and his ability to spend time on the job were seriously impaired. Finally, when he was hardly able to conduct a meeting because of the illness, which proved fatal, he was re-elected again, just because he always had been.

A young, growing organization certainly does need all the experience it can get and a continuity to its administrations. But it seems to us it would be better to elect the vice president the next president, rather than either re-electing a president or taking someone else off the board for president.

This has two advantages. Not only will there be a continuity in administration, but the vice president, knowing he will have to take over as president next year, will be a much better aide to and worker with the president than if he did not have the presidency to look forward to.

In any case, we hope the transit directors will not again feel that "experience" is the prime factor and keep the same president for life.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

KNOWLEDGE IS NOT ENOUGH

A young man sentenced to a year in prison in Hamilton, Ontario, made a unique request just before he was jailed.

He asked the officer who arrested him to return two books he had borrowed from a library. The titles were: "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing" and "The FBI Story."

Knowledge of crime and its consequences seldom deters men from evil. In fact, the worst criminals often have brilliant minds but weak wills.

There is no substitute for self-control and self-discipline. Much greater headway, for instance, will be made in developing strong character in young people if every home, church and school trains youth in a mastery of self.

God entrusts each of us with the power to choose good and evil. But He leaves the decision to each of us. Much depends on the choice each of us personally makes.

"They that hope in the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall take wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint." (Isaiah 40:31).

Strengthen my will to do good, O Holy Spirit.

Kathryn Grant Playing 3 Roles: Mother, Actress, Student Nurse

NEW YORK (AP)—Life holds a triple challenge these days for Kathryn Grant, the young wife of singer Bing Crosby.

It has given her three roles to play—all at the same time. She is a busy mother, a busy actress, and she is busy studying physiology because she wants to get a degree as a registered nurse.

Although she is a bit reluctant to discuss it, she is quite serious in her ambition to learn nursing.

"A nurse learns discipline, and how to give service with her hands," she said. "This is a very satisfying feeling. I think it will be a big help to me in my domestic life."

The Texas-born beauty came here for public appearances preliminary to the release of her 17th film, which was shot in Spain.

Even wearing a black chemise dress and with her dark hair drawn back into a "severe chignon" — her words — Kathryn still looks startlingly young. She still feels her youthful look is something of a burden in her professional career.

"This is the real handicap — the round face," she said. "My husband says I can't get away yet with playing a well-kempt broad. Actually, I'm a hag of 25."

Her visit here left Kathryn — she doesn't like to be called Kathy — homesick for Crosby and their 4-month-old son, Harry Lillis Crosby Jr. "We call him 'Tex' or 'Little Mouse' or 'Little Man,'" she said. "Bing calls him 'Little Drunk' because of the expression he gets after finishing his bottle. He just sits there contemplating his navel."

MISS GRANT'S marriage to the celebrated crooner was regarded as a real Cinderella romance by movie fans, but she doesn't like to break the privacy of her present home life.

"So many people ask me what Bing is really like," she said.

"Actually Bing is exactly the kind of person most people think he is."

"He is a heavenly father. He sings incessantly around the house, and he loves to sing to the baby."

"CHURCH MEANS a great deal to him. It does to both of us."

In meeting the problems of her triple life — as wife, actress and student nurse — Kathryn says she likes to remember two sayings of her own mother:

"Do the best you can. You can do anything you have to."

Then she added: "Happiness is an elusive term, but I feel I am a woman fulfilled."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Need Segregation Of Intelligence

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

The Grand Jury is to be congratulated on their very excellent report on the school system in Marin County.

Richard Foster, the outgoing county superintendent of schools, is reported as saying: "I oppose a plan of segregation in the elementary schools, whether it be on the basis of race, color, intelligence or reading ability..."

This attitude appears to be precisely what the Grand Jury finds to be prevalent and condemns, and a large number of parents agree with the Grand Jury.

Why not segregate the intelligent and fast-learning child from the one not yet ready to advance quite as quickly?

Why not give EVERY child a chance to grow up at his own pace?

There is simply no incentive for the intelligent student, if he or she is always tied to the coat-tails of the slowest in the class. Maybe it is the attitude of Mr. Foster and others like him, who oppose segregation by intelligence, that accounts for the very low standard of learning and academic achievement of which our schools are, unfortunately but not unjustly, accused at the present time.

Let's Keep Clear Issue Of Billboards

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

It is misleading to confuse the current billboard control issue in California with the question of federal versus local control. (See your editorial of Dec. 1, "When Federal Government Pays, It Calls The Tune.") The basic problem now under consideration is strictly the problem of California's own needs in regard to roadside development.

This distinction between the mere acceptance of federal standards and consideration of our own billboard problem has been emphasized over and over. In the public hearings held by Senator John F. McCarthy's interim subcommittee, Senator McCarthy himself repeatedly reminded witnesses that the study by the subcommittee is to determine whether some basic state controls are needed, and, if so, what form they should take. His first conclusion announced Dec. 8 in the press is that the need for controls is definitely indicated.

Another fundamental principle also has been emphasized in these hearings; namely, that state legislation should supplement, but should not supersede, county zoning rules.

In a county like Marin, which is well and comprehensively zoned, state controls such as those under consideration would make no change. The real impact, and the benefit, would be in those counties where little or no zoning has been accomplished, but which are crossed by freeways or will be.

It is significant that of the 29 official groups, boards of supervisors, city councils, and city and county planning commissions, which already have endorsed the principle of basic state billboard controls as a supplement to county zoning, more than half of them represent areas in which local zoning has been unable to cope satisfactorily with the problem of roadside billboards.

So please keep the issue clear: namely, California's own needs for basic state billboard controls to supplement county zoning regulations.

Silver Lining

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Classroom failures "should be accepted as part of growing up," says University of Michigan professor of education Stanley E. Diamond.

"All children fail at times," he reminded parents. "They lose at games; they do not do arithmetic problems correctly; another child reads better, jumps better, wears better clothes."

"It is probably impossible to mature in our society without experiencing failure. The good is not in the failure but in the overcoming of failure. . . ."

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Years ago, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, heard there was a young ball hawk patrolling center field for the Little Rock, Ark., baseball team who seemed ripe for a major league tryout. Furthermore, he was available for the sum of $400 (those were the days!) His name was Tris Speaker. And do you know why Dreyfuss passed up the chance to get one of the greatest ball players of all time virtually on a silver platter? He was told that the rookie smoked cigarettes. "Nasty habit," grumbled

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By WILLIAM L. EARLE

County Clerk Proposes Hiring Of Efficiency Expert To Check Workers

Marin's supervisors were discussing a personnel matter last Tuesday when County Clerk George Jones cut in with a suggestion calculated to give county employees the cold shivers.

Jones thought it would be a fine idea if the board hired an efficiency expert to check on the performance of courthouse office workers, from typist-clerks on up to department deputies.

The ideal person, he said, would be an outsider without any friends in the courthouse — someone who could make a thoroughly impartial study of employee work habits and accomplishments (or the lack thereof).

Among other things, said Jones, the efficiency expert should report on who shows up late for work, who takes an excessively long coffee break and who fritters away valuable time at county expense.

This brought a snort from Supervisor Bill Fusselman.

"There wouldn't be enough sheets of paper to put all that down," he said.

Incidentally, Jones didn't bat an eye when County Administrator Don Jensen described him to the supervisors as "a notoriously tough boss."

FAIRFAX CITY councilmen threw a scare into Police Chief Andy Peri last week after learning that the two-year term of Police Capt. Clifton Cordes as the city's representative of the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District board was about to expire.

Winking at each other, several councilmen suggested Peri might make a fine successor to Cordes. Peri, who missed the winks, shifted uneasily in his chair. He obviously didn't cotton to the idea.

NOT FOR GOMPERS Meany Not Enthusiastic About A Labor Party

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—When George Meany, head man of AFL-CIO, talks about organized labor setting up its own political party it is appropriate to mark the date as an historic occasion.

That is appropriate because George Meany is a cautious, conservative individual who more than any other in the modern labor movement, is heir to the caution and conservatism and the thinking of the late Samuel Gompers; to his patriotism, as well.

SAMUEL GOMPERS might be the name of a race horse or of a movie magnate, long dead, so far as today's Americans are concerned. He was, however, the great man of the U.S. labor movement, a cigar-maker by trade who was born in England and who died Dec. 13, 1924, full of honors conferred by his adopted homeland.

Gompers was one of the founders of the AFL and its president from that founding in 1886 until his death, except during the year 1895.

GOMPERS WAS firmly against organized labor setting up its own political party, previously didn't cotton to the idea.

The chief relaxed somewhat when Councilman Ken Edgar noted that Cordes "gets a big kick" out of helping formulate anti-mosquito policies and practices.

"Maybe we ought to reap-point him," said Edgar. Which the council did, much to Peri's relief.

"If you're bothered by a mosquito in Fairfax, just call Cliff Cordes," boomed out Fire Chief Charles Thornton after the council vote.

LATER IN THE meeting, Peri told the council he still hadn't found a suitable night shelter for the police department's spanking new three-wheel motorcycle.

Thornton, who doubles as street superintendent, said the corporation yard was filled to capacity every night with 11 street department vehicles.

Someone in the audience suggested a local service station owner might be happy to store the three-wheeler, but this was ruled out from the standpoint of liability.

And so it went, until Councilman Edgar came up with a dandy suggestion.

"Take it to bed with you," he told Peri.

AT THE SAME session, the council debated whether to prohibit the use of Center Boulevard by vehicles of more than 6,000 pounds gross weight.

Listening attentively was ex-Mayor Floyd Elliott, who finally stood up and said, "My car weighs 5,500 pounds. If I put six people in it, I'd be violating your ordinance."

"Well, put light people in it, Floyd," shot back Councilman Bill Hughes.

In the end, the council decided the ban should apply to commercial vehicles only.

although as an Englishman he must have been intimately aware of the political movement sparked by British Labor in 1900 which is the powerful British Socialist Party of today.

Perhaps that was because Gompers also was acutely aware of what was happening inside the British Labor Party. The substantially conservative British Laborites who founded a party 58 years ago, had no suspicion, in their innocence, that they actually had contrived the political cradle of big-time British socialism.

By 1924, however, and the years immediately preceding Gompers' death the socialist identity of what is mis-called the British Labor Party was clearly evident.

MEANY WASN'T very enthusiastic last week about setting up a labor party. He said it would be done if labor could not otherwise gain its political objectives. The 2,842 listening delegates of the New York AFL-CIO convention, however, greeted the idea with booming cheers.

Gompers wouldn't have been cheering had he been there. He watched labor go political in his native land and was not pleased.

BIG BARGE 'DUCKS' UNDER GATE BRIDGE

World's largest mobile offshore platform, the George F. Ferris, just cleared the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday as it headed for Los Angeles. Without stopping, the huge barge jacked down its 275-foot legs 57 feet to clear the bridge, then raised them to navigate an offshore shoal. The Ferris measures 190 feet long and 122 feet wide, weighs 4,500 tons. It will assemble a big ocean sewer pipe in 200 feet of water off El Segundo.

Fire Deaths Blamed On Delay, Mixup

CHICAGO (AP) — A delay in sounding a fire alarm and a mixup in street addresses are cited by Chicago's fire commissioner as two of the direct causes of the deaths of 89 pupils and three nuns in the Our Lady of the Angels School fire.

Had fire-fighters reached the school as little as three minutes earlier, Robert J. Quinn told a coroner's jury investigating the Dec. 1 fire, there might have been no lives lost.

"There were three persons inside the school building who knew of the fire and did not give an alarm immediately," Quinn declared.

He apparently referred to the testimony of Miss Pearl Tristano, 24, a fifth grade teacher, who said she and one of her pupils smelled smoke between 2:35 and 2:40 p.m. She notified a teacher in an adjoining room. The teacher hunted unsuccessfully for the mother superior.

Miss Tristano said she sounded the school alarm, but only after she had led her class out in fire drill formation. The school alarm does not ring in the fire department office.

When a telephoned alarm did come at 2:42 p.m., said Quinn, the address given was that of the rectory, half a block from the burning school.

Sausalito Offers Design For Post Office To U.S.

The City of Sausalito today offered the U.S. Post Office Department a design for the post office the city almost didn't want.

City Manager Donald A. Duerr forwarded to the regional post office headquarters in San Francisco a suggested exterior design prepared by famed architect John Lord King.

In addition to a lengthy disagreement over location of the office, apprehension had been expressed by some over the possible drab exterior appearance of the building.

A committee of Duerr, City Councilman John E. Koenig Jr., Mayor Howard Sievers, Gilbert P. Murphy, Samuel Weinstein and Mrs. Robert C. La Fontaine expressed satisfaction with the suggested redwood and glass exterior design which King submitted.

Hub Council To Meet At 9 O'Clock Tonight

A special meeting of the San Anselmo City Council will be held tonight at 9 o'clock, said City Clerk Anita Gannon.

The special meeting call was signed by Councilmen Carleton Little and William Franchini. A telegram was received from Jordan L. Martinelli Jr., who was out of town, giving his acquiescence for the special meeting.

The controversy over the location of the post office — whether on city-owned property on the waterfront or at Bridgeway and Johnson street (the site finally approved) — at one time brought the suggestion that the city use some downtown store location as a branch of a main office to be located elsewhere, perhaps in Marin City.

Novato Schools Group To Meet Next Jan. 8

A meeting of the Novato Advisory Council on Education, originally scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed until Jan. 8 at 8 p.m. in the Novato High School library, Dr. Lawrence D. Witter, spokesman, announced today.

The meeting will be for discussion of the proposed unification of Novato and San Jose school districts, Witter said. A special election on the issue will be held Jan. 13.

Coya's Husband Says Her Foes Duped Him Into Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Coya Knutson's husband testified today that he was duped into making his "Coya, come home" appeal by his wife's political foes who spread rumors that she was "running around" with her staff assistant.

Andrew Knutson, 50-year-old Oklee, Minn., hotel operator, said he was "steamed up" by stories about his wife and her assistant, Bill Kjeldahl, but now believes they were untrue.

The blonde Democratic congressman sat at the side of the room as Knutson testified before a House elections subcommittee. She blinked frequently and appeared to be fighting back tears.

Knutson said he did not write the "Coya, come home" letter which was issued in the form of a press release May 4. He said it was handed to him by a man named Jimmy Turgeon after a meeting he attended at Turgeon's home.

The letter, which drew national attention to the Minnesota congressional campaign, called on Mrs. Knutson to quit Congress and return home to be with Andy. It also contained unfavorable comments about Kjeldahl.

Knutson said he assumed Turgeon had written the press release. He said "It sure surprises me" to hear that a handwriting expert testified the writing was that of Maurice O. Nelson, an officer in the campaign of Mrs. Knutson's Republican foe, Odin Langen.

Knutson testified he signed a typewritten copy of the press release because "they told me that Kjeldahl was dictating to my wife and how they were running around together."

Mrs. Knutson's lawyer, Walter Surrey, asked if Knutson felt "you were used by opponents of your wife."

"Yes, I do," Knutson replied.

Knutson said he would not have signed the press release had he known that Nelson drafted it and that Democrats opposed to his wife were working with Republicans.

Woolpert Unhappy Over Officiating

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coach Phil Woolpert still is unhappy about the officiating during his San Francisco Dons' 53-52 loss to Kansas State Saturday.

Woolpert told the Northern California Basketball Writers and Sportscasters' Assn. yesterday, "It is extremely discouraging to lose a game which you deserve to win on your own merits."

"I felt that Saturday night's game was allowed to get a little out of hand early and calls that should have been made were not. Then late in the game, in clutch situations, the officials tightened up."

"We don't want any favoritism, but we want the game called as it's played. If there's a violation, call it—all the way. If the game should be tightened up, it should be tightened early. I thought in this instance our team played a better game and should have won."

Woolpert's Dons, who have not yet won in their new home gym in three tries, seek to take victory No. 1 there tonight, against Wichita.

In the other game for the area tonight, Houston plays Santa Clara at the San Jose Civic Auditorium.

California Coach Pete Newell declared the outlook for basketball on the West Coast this season is good. He asserted:

"In our area and up and down the coast there may not be an outstanding team right now, but there are a lot of good teams. By February or March there could be an outstanding team or two."

California plays at Iowa on Dec. 19 and Wisconsin the following night. Stanford also invades the Big Ten, playing Minnesota on Dec. 22 and Illinois the next evening.

Also due to travel are the St. Mary's Gaels. They host Redlands tomorrow night and then embark on a tour that starts with Utah, Utah State and Brigham Young.

Honored as the area's co-players-of-the-week were USF's John Cunningham and California's Denny Fitzpatrick.

St. Raphael's CYO Cagers Win 4 League Victories

St. Raphael's talented group of CYO basketballers swept to four victories in league games on Saturday, checking their friendly rivals from St. Vincent's school in 70, 80, 100 and 120-pound games by scores of 24-7, 39-15, 19-13 and 41-16.

Other results for the day were: St. Rita's of Fairfax 15, St. Patrick's of Larkspur 8 (70s); St. Vincent's 42, St. Rita's 10 (90s); and St. Patrick's 26, St. Rita's 8 (100s).

St. Rita's uncorked an early season surprise when its fledgling 70-pounders upset St. Patrick's, 15-8. These two little clubs created near-bedlam among their followers in the Fairfax Pavilion. There was a wild scramble for the ball by every participant from flag-fall to finish.

Honors for picking up the most points was hard work. Bobby Stout and Jimmy Odette tallied four each for St. Rita's while Bob Wayne was pitching in five for their victims.

Yank Hurlers Tops In A.L. Performance

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Yankees pitching staff, headed by Whitey Ford and Bob Turley, again topped the American League in performance the past season.

Official league statistics released today show the Yankee staff posted a 3.22 earned run average far ahead of second place Baltimore's 3.40. Ford, the chunky southpaw, led all individuals with a 2.01 mark.

Detroit was third with a 3.59 average, followed by Chicago's 3.61, Cleveland's 3.73; Boston's 3.92, Kansas City's 4.15 and Washington's 4.53.

Trailing Ford among the individual leaders were southpaw Billy Pierce of Chicago with 2.68, southpaw Jack Harshman of Baltimore with 2.90, right-hander Frank Lary of Detroit with 2.91, left-hander Billy O'Dell of Baltimore with 2.97, right-hander Turley with 2.98 and right-hander Cal McLish of Cleveland with 2.99.

Turley was the league's only 20-game winner with a 21-7 record and a .750 percentage—tops among pitchers who worked 154 or more innings. Second to Turley in victories was Pierce with 17.

Despite his great record, Turley again led the loop in walks with 128, only two of which were intentional.

Upsets Mark Year's Liveliest Boxing Night

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Upsets featured the year's liveliest boxing night yesterday, although a world champion and a European titleholder won their bouts handily.

"Name" fighters like Johnny Saxton, Ralph (Tiger) Jones, Davey Dupas, Victor Zalazar and Ludwig Lightburn were ticked, and heavyweight contender Zora Folley couldn't draw enough money to permit a scheduled fight to be staged.

However, Pascual Perez of Argentina made a successful eighth defense of the world flyweight title by winning a unanimous 15-round decision over Filipino Dommy Ursua before 40,000 at Manila—largest crowd in Philippine fight history.

And at Paris, Gustav Scholz of Germany, European middleweight champion, outpointed mustachioed Germinal Ballarin of France in a 10-round non-title bout.

Perhaps the most disappointed fighter of the night was young Zalazar, Argentine middleweight who went into the ring with 15 straight knockouts in 15 professional starts, and lost a split decision to Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba at St. Nicholas arena in New York.

At Providence, R.I., Willie Green, an unbeaten but little known middleweight, stopped Saxton, the former two-time welterweight champion, in the third round.

At Cleveland, middleweight contender Rory Calhoun came back and surprised with a unanimous decision over Jones, who had outpointed Rory at New York only three weeks ago.

Lightly regarded J. D. Ellis, a Trenton, N.J., lightweight, upset Dupas of New Orleans at Ottawa, Ontario, in a bout that was Ellis' first 10-rounder. Ellis got the unanimous decision.

At New Orleans, Arthur Persley—apparently a lightweight on the skids—on an upset split 10-round verdict over highly touted Lightburn of British Honduras.

At Boston, middleweight

Paul Pender—in his second bout after three years absence from the ring—stopped Pete Adams of Newark, N.J., in the fourth round.

Folley, third-ranked heavyweight contender, had to make it an eight-round exhibition with Alvin Green at Odessa, Tex., because the promoter couldn't raise enough money for their scheduled 10-round fight—even though the hat was passed.

On the Calhoun-Jones supporting card at Cleveland, Lemar Clark—young heavyweight knockout artist from Cedar City, Utah—belated two of three scheduled opponents but was unable to tackle the third because of a hand injury. He may have suffered a fracture.

S.F. Orders Probe Of Kezar Riot

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The police committee of the board of supervisors has been ordered to open a full-scale investigation of Sunday's riot at Kezar Stadium following the 49ers-Colts game.

Calling the latest riot an example of "ugly mob violence that stopped just short of tragedy," board president Francis McCarty ordered the investigation last night after Mayor George Christopher recommended that stern measures be taken to prevent further outbreaks.

McCarty called the riot an absolute disgrace. "Tragedy was avoided by a hair-thin margin."

Christopher, who wrote letters to the police, the recreation-park commission, the municipal court and the San Francisco 49ers management asking for a meeting to study the situation, recommended that drinking be banned at 49ers games and judges crack down on future offenders.

He said most incidents were caused "by a few prone to drinking during the game who became abusive and belligerent. Women and children are not safe in their presence."

Weep, If You Must For Albert The Coach, But Not The Man

Weep if you must for Frankie Albert the Coach, but shed no tears for Frankie Albert, the Man.

Of all the jobs in the professional world there is none quite so rugged as coaching or managing a top flight football or baseball team.

Win and you are a hero. Lose and you're a bum.

And if you are mediocre in the final count you are given the opportunity of resigning before you are fired.

So Frankie Albert resigned from the San Francisco 49ers just before his last game.

The fans gave him a hero's ovation when he appeared on the field at Kezar Stadium last Sunday.

And his players presented him with a 21 of 12 blaze of glory victory over the champion Baltimore Colts.

This gave Albert and the 49ers a six won, six lost season, and fourth place in the Western Division of the National Football League. Creditable, to be sure, but still "mediocre" in the play-for-pay business.

SURE THE PLAYERS "love" their old coach. But not enough to put out for him at full steam in every game.

I can recall two games lost by the 49ers this year that should have been won. And had they won those two games, last Sunday's tussle might have been for the championship or the right for a playoff game.

Had this happened, Frankie would now have a new contract, the plaudits of the crowd, and another headache next year.

As it is, Albert can now sleep nights, stay home or come home during the week, and enjoy the kids and a football game again.

And with his great personality and his host of friends, Frankie can just about take his pick of many well paid public relations jobs which will be offered him.

For this we should cry in our beer?

HISTORY HAS a way of repeating, and all this is nothing new to ex-coach Albert.

As a sophomore quarterback at Stanford he was just another man in uniform.

Then as a junior under Coach Clark Shaughnessy he rode the "new" T-formation to glory and a win over Nebraska in the Rose Bowl.

As a senior, with half his team graduated, he was a good but frustrated quarterback.

Again, as quarterback for the 49ers, he was "always" a bridesmaid but never a bride" as the ubiquitous Cleveland Browns kept nosing his team out of championships.

And again as 49er coach, Albert had a poor first, then a heartbreaking playoff loss in his second year, and now the mediocre six and six.

IT'S A TOUGH life, men, but the coaches know what they are getting into.

Save your tears for the new coach of the 49ers.

In keeping with the dreary season's ending I have constructed a poem, to wit:

Gone is the season
And gone is the reason
To join with the crowd in a roar;

And shed a sad tear
In your bucket of beer
For Frankie will coach no more.

Belotti Plans Measure For Salmon Planting

A meeting of the Aquatic Resources Committee was held at the Marin Rod and Gun Club clubhouse on Dec. 3.

Assemblyman Frank Belotti of Eureka was in attendance. He made it known that he intends to present a bill at the opening session of the Legislature that will authorize and finance the downstream planting of 2,000,000 salmon fingerlings for each of the next four years.

The Department of Fish and Game is already budgeted to take care of the expenses of the first year, but immediate action is imperative, and this measure would get the plan into operation by February of next year.

Under the proposed program, 2,000,000 marked salmon infants will be made available by the Coleman Hatchery. In March, 500,000 will be released directly into the Sacramento River below Shasta Dam, another 500,000 will be barged downstream for release off Sausalito. In late May or June, the process will be repeated.

Main purposes of the project are: (1) To determine the specific degree to which the downstream swim is responsible for decimation of our salmon schools; (2) To move at least 1,000,000 salmon fingerlings past all river hazards.

That baby chinook can make the trip and transfer to salt water was successfully demonstrated this spring with 2,000 fingerlings. The barge trip takes only about three days, while the natural swim takes a matter of months, during which the fry are exposed to one hazard after another.

Recovery operations still are being worked out. The program is expected to cost $15,600 the first year, $36,000 the second, and $65,000 annually thereafter. The increased costs are for necessary expansion of the recovery program. It is anticipated that after the second year there will be a full time recovery crew in action. Arrangements also are being made with officials in Oregon, Washington, Canada and Alaska for obtaining data on fish marked under the program, that are caught in those waters.

Rally Collects $1,600 For Ducks Unlimited

In addition to furnishing the individual with facilities for fishing, boating, picnicking, etc., the purpose of the Marin Rod and Gun Club is the conservation and propagation of wildlife. The results, through the efforts and support of the members in this behalf, have been outstanding. To be a member of a club which achieves such outstanding results is most gratifying.

The recent 1958 DU rally is a case in point. Our club collected $1,600 for Ducks Unlimited and, while we were not so lucky as last year, Marin County residents received four prizes and a number of tickets sold by our committee were prize winners in Oakland and San Francisco vicinities.

In a recent newspaper article, James R. MacDonald, staff reporter of the Wall Street Journal, stated "Since Ducks Unlimited was founded in 1937 the organization has spent over six-million dollars in a sort of privately-supported foreign aid program in neighboring Canada without whose cooperation, according to H. Bliss Rucker, the organization's national president, 'we could not have done the job. In many cases the provincial Canadian governments have matched us dollar-for-dollar on construction costs of 'duck factories,' and in others, they have given us thousands of acres for our use in building such factories.' Membership of Ducks Unlimited currently includes only about 30,000, of an estimated total of more than two million duck hunters around the U.S."

Our club contributes in no small measure to such a project is due to the support of each member and it is still my fondest hope that same day we shall have a lake project called "Lake Marin."

Best Season In Years For Striped Bass

Striped bass fishermen in the bay area have had the best fishing year in many a moon.

Up until last week fishing has been excellent, but with the appearance of minus tides the fish have departed.

During the entire summer fishing, from Alcatraz, Raccoon Straits, Red Rock, Point San Quentin, China Camp, Hamilton Field flats and the entire San Pablo Bay area, the waters have been alive with striped bass.

Trollers and bait fishermen have had a wonderful season.

Only a week ago hundreds of boats from buoy 6 to buoy 12 in deep water had exceptionally fine fishing. Catching stripers by bait and trolling in December has been unknown for many years.

The appearance of so many small fish is a good sign of better fishing in the future.

If the fishing keeps on improving and the boats increase like they have been, it won't be long before the bay will be too small.

Steelhead Fishing At Standstill

Steelhead fishing is at a standstill. All coastal streams are at a low water mark and the streams are badly in need of heavy rains to open up the sand bars at the stream mouths.

Russian river mouth was open about 10 days ago and steelhead fishing started in earnest. At the present time the lower river is filled with salmon, but they just aren't biting.

All we need to be back in the steelhead fishing business is a good rain and the fish that are congregated in the ocean outside each stream entering the ocean, are eager to journey upstream.

In the meantime, check over your steelhead equipment and be ready when the fishing starts.

State Stocks Marin Creek With Trout

Marin County's Papermill (Lagunitas) Creek has been stocked with 60,000 fingerling silver salmon during the past week, the California Department of Fish and Game announced today.

The fish were surplus from stocks currently being raised for California's state-wide silver salmon program. The plants are expected to speed-up the comeback of fish runs in the Papermill Creek drainage, now that there has been correction of conditions in which dairy farm rotenone spraying and manure pollution had seriously depleted salmon runs in both the creek and Tomales Bay.

In addition to being a popular winter fishing area, the Papermill creek drainage is being considered as a possible future source for eggs for the silver salmon program.

BIRDS SITTING TIGHT

Change In Weather Should Improve Waterfowl Hunting

Duck hunters had exceptionally fine hunting in many sections of the Sacramento Valley on Saturday. Large new flocks of northern birds arrived and hunting was the best for several weeks.

However, on Sunday the weather was warm and the birds didn't work as well as the preceding day.

While everyone has been wishing for a change in the weather, you can rest assured that hunting will improve with the first storm.

Thousands of ducks and geese are in the valleys and prospects are good for the remaining month of the season which closes on Jan. 15.

Continued unseasonably mild weather throughout California has adversely affected waterfowl hunting, DFG game managers report.

Seth Gordon, department director, said that a complete census of this year's waterfowl population in California revealed large numbers of birds present—at least up to the seasonal average of past years—but that "bluebird" weather has kept them sitting tight. A change in the weather would get the birds moving, he said, and should give sportsmen a chance for better bags during the final month of the general waterfowl season.

The end of pheasant season saw a pickup in hunter use of several state-operated waterfowl management areas. For the season through Dec. 7th, the statewide average bag was 3.2 birds per hunter.

Gordon said that no feeding is being done on waterfowl management areas, and only the natural grain crops, which the department has regularly produced to minimize depredation on nearby farm lands, are available there. Even this natural feed, he explained, now has been consumed on most of these areas.

Reports from the Gray Lodge Waterfowl Management Area for the Dec. 3-7 period showed a 5.3 average per hunter and from the Sutter National Wildlife Refuge a 5.9 average to lead the public shooting areas.

KILLER SUSPECT BOOKED — Carl A. Eder, 16, confessed slayer of five, is flanked by El Cajon detectives Ivan Melvin (left) and Frank Le Count as he arrives at county jail in San Diego last night. Eder is charged with killing an El Cajon mother and her four children. (AP Wirephoto)

'Why Did You Do It?' Dad Shrieks At Killer

SAN DIEGO (U)—Thomas Pendergast stared at the lanky, pimply-faced youth who had just confessed slaying Pendergast's wife and four children.

"Why did you do it?" he screamed. "They were all I had in the world."

Young Carl Eder slumped in his chair at the police station. His mouth opened and shut several times but no sound came out. Finally he blurted: "I... I didn't want to, Tom."

The meeting between Pendergast and the 16-year-old runaway New York youth he had befriended came last night after Eder had been captured in a beach community a few miles north of San Diego.

Police had been looking for him since Friday when the bodies of Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, and her four children were found in their home. The mother had been shot, the children slashed and stabbed with a knife.

The 6-foot-3 teen-ager, whose description had been widely broadcast, was recognized by a resident of Mission Beach and arrested by an off-duty policeman and a lifeguard. After a brief show of defiance the boy started crying and admitted he was Eder and that he had killed Mrs. Pendergast and the children.

"I just flipped," his captors quoted him as saying.

At the San Diego police station, officers said they got a detailed confession from the youth Pendergast picked up as a hitchhiker six weeks ago and took him into his home because he felt sorry for him.

They said Eder told them he became angry because one of the children, Diane, 4, was making a lot of noise.

He stormed into the bedroom and threw the girl on the floor, cutting her head.

Mrs. Pendergast rushed up, took the child into the bathroom to bandage her and told Eder to call a doctor. Instead, the youth got a pistol from the garage and came back and shot the mother.

He killed Diane and her brother Allen, 2, by cutting their throats with a hunting knife. And when David, 9, and Tom, 6, came home from school he killed them the same way.

He was waiting outside when Pendergast came home from his job as an aircraft worker and forced him to drive him toward San Diego before the father had a chance to enter the house and find out what had happened.

He left Pendergast at a service station in San Diego. About the man who had befriended him, he said: "I didn't want to kill him. He's been real good to me."

Eder said he had been sleeping in a ballroom closed for the winter since Friday. He was spotted while walking on the boardwalk near the ballroom.

The San Diego Union telephoned Eder's parents in Irondequoit, N.Y. and reported in a copyrighted story that his father Karl Eder said he never wanted to see the boy again. "I'm glad they got him," the father said.

Young Eder showed little emotion until he was confronted by Pendergast at the police station. Then the grief-stricken father screamed at him: "Why, oh why: My little Diane... My little Allen... My little Tom... My little David... Why?"

Eder flushed, his jaw dropped and tears streamed from his eyes.

Eatery Given Deadline To Fix Kitchen

San Rafael city councilmen last night put the squeeze on the owners and operators of San Rafael Joe's restaurant to rebuild the dilapidated kitchen area or face condemnation by the city.

After hearing testimony from building, sanitation and fire officials on the structural hazards of the rear kitchen area, city fathers decided to hold up formal abatement proceedings for one month. If corrections to the old building at 915 Fourth street are not started by then, the city will move to abate, which would mean razing the kitchen 30 days after the abatement resolution is passed.

Attorney William T. Bagley, representing restaurant owners Hector Rubini and Guido Farina, stressed that the city's complaint is aimed at structural defects in the kitchen and not against the health or food standards. Bagley said he wants it clearly understood that the food served at Joe's is of the highest standard.

Julius Selinger, attorney for Aaron Schwartz, who is owner of the property, said he feels responsibility for correcting the defects lies with the tenants and not the owners. Schwartz just bought the property about two months ago, allowing the same tenants to operate the restaurant.

As a court reporter took down testimony verbatim, Building Inspector Clifford Monk declared the portion of the building in question is the kitchen area to the rear of the restaurant.

Among the defects, Monk listed these: The structure, about 55 feet long and 12½ feet wide, lists badly. There is no foundation. The sub-floor is rotted and weak, steps twisted and worn.

Open space between the ground and floor could provide harborage for rodents. Washrooms lack proper ventilation, sink and dishwasher are not completely trapped, and electrical wiring is inadequate.

Deputy Fire Chief Vance Trivett said he found "extremely poor housekeeping" in the rear structure. He said the structure is a potential fire trap for employees and would be dangerous in firefighting.

William Desmond, director of sanitation for the county health department, testified that poor floors and walls make it impossible to keep the premises in a sanitary condition.

Another dilapidated building, at 211 First street, was given a chance to be reconstructed.

Claude Arroyo of 217 First street, a carpenter, appeared with deeds to show he had acquired legal title to the property. He said he hopes to have the vacant home raised by housemovers and to rebuild it to city standards within two months.

City fathers decided to postpone abatement action from month to month to keep tabs on Arroyo's progress.

Puerto Suello Hill Apartments Killed

A protest delegation of about 50 residents of Chula Vista terrace last night effectively blocked a proposed one-and-one-half million dollar apartment project on Puerto Suello Hill in San Rafael.

San Rafael city councilmen unanimously turned down the rezoning of some 12 acres of land on the west side of Highway 101, where seven apartment buildings totaling 140 units had been planned by Dr. R. E. Osler of San Rafael and H. A. Merlo of Tiburon.

After an hour and a half of debate, Mayor John F. McInnis observed that the developers had failed to convince neighboring residents of the desirability of the apartment project.

The council action reversed the planning commission's recommendation that the apartment project would be the best and most practical use of the hilly terrain.

Attorney Bryan McCarthy, representing the developers, argued that the apartment project would bring these advantages: Sewer lines where septic tanks now exist; better driveway access than if the area were developed as 63 individual lots; less excavation and less water runoff. Fair drive from Lincoln avenue to the proposed project would be widened to a 36-foot road, he added.

But residents of Chula Vista, led by attorney Harold F. Wolters, declared they do not want apartments invading their single family residence area.

A dozen citizens got up to protest. They said traffic would be congested, values depreciated and privacies invaded. Almost to a man, the residents declared they bought homes there only because it was first residential, and they should not be penalized for the profit of someone else who had also purchased with the knowledge it was a single family dwelling district.

The Marin group will be joined by a San Francisco group for the tour, to be conducted by Dr. Louis Wasserman, professor of philosophy and government at San Francisco State College.

The group plan to visit U. S. embassies and churches, farm societies and industrial organizations in its attempt to contrast ways of life in the countries visited.

Marinites booked for the tour are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wheelwright III of Green Gulch Ranch at Muir Beach, and four young men of college age: Philip Richardson, Scotty Mills, Michael Kelly and John Wasserman.

Junior Museum Ruled Ineligible For City Funds

Junior Museum of Marin cannot get San Rafael city funds as a private organization, but it may try to work out some arrangement with the city's Recreation and Park Commission to get semi-official status, the city council indicated last night.

What the Junior Museum can work out with the park commission is entirely up to the museum and the park board, the city fathers pointed out. Councilmen said they cannot promise anything.

GIVES EDUCATION

Al Nieri, representing the Junior Museum, and S. Thompson Walker, museum director, explained the museum is providing recreation and education to the city's youngsters and adults. Nieri asked the city for $4,000 to help meet the museum's $18,000 budget for the coming year.

Councilman Charles W. Aby declared public funds cannot be given to any private organization, no matter how worthy the purpose.

CONFERENCE SUGGESTED

"Is there any way to get it into the recreation and park commission?" Councilman Louis H. Baar wondered.

Mayor John F. McInnis suggested the museum approach the recreation and park commission to see if something can be worked out. There may even be a chance that Walker could be hired part-time as an employee of the recreation and park department, he said.

Soldier Fined $150 For Drunk Driving

A Ft. Barry soldier must pay $150 fine and remain on supervised probation for two years for his first drunken driving offense.

Donald Lee Caldwell, 25, was sentenced last Thursday by Judge Harold J. Haley in Marin Municipal Court. The judge ordered the soldier to pay for damages on cars which he hit in Sausalito. Caldwell was arrested on Highway 101 near Alto on Nov. 7. Police learned his car had struck three parked cars in Sausalito earlier that night.

Meadow Club Women Golfers Have Annual Yule Luncheon

Outgoing captain, Mrs. Arthur Latno, and captain-elect, Mrs. Lewis Kerlin, were hostesses recently to more than 100 members of the Meadow Club's women's golf section, gathering at the club for the annual Christmas luncheon.

Honored guests at the affair were Mrs. John Forbes, who in 1930, with but 10 golfers in her section served as the first captain, and Mrs. Charles Davis, who was captain in 1937; Mesdames John Ross, captain of 1941; Anton Rilovich, captain of 1944; Milton Gabbs, captain of 1946, and Louis Carlson, captain of 1952. Unable to attend was Mrs. James Wetmore who headed the 1947 golfing group.

Previous to luncheon, the guests were entertained with the antics of several of the section's gifted women who staged a musical skit sung to the melodies of Gilbert and Sullivan. The act concerned a young golf widow, aptly played by Mrs. Carl Boegershausen, who finally goes the way of many such women and takes up the game herself.

A FOURSOME
A foursome of golfers preferred a comfortable game of bridge to the hardships of the golf course was excellently portrayed by Mesdames Edward Vest, John Lesoine, Harrison Leppo and C. T. Rothweiler. The golf professional was done by Mrs. Everett Gray and the two young women singing woes while showering as to what they should and could have done to improve their games were Mrs. John Cann, in reality the club's golf champion, and Mrs. Harry Transue, who is but a shade behind in golfing skill.

The hypochondriac golfer with many an ailing excuse for not playing well was sung by Mrs. Kerlin, who had the crowd in an uproar with her sense of comedy.

The lamenting handicapper was enacted by Mrs. Earle Young and the chic announcers attired in red and green were Mrs. Don Fleming and Mrs. Paul Spengler.

The lyrics were written by Mrs. John Golden from the Lake Merced club. The singers were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Eva Kirschner.

While the day was blamy, with little feel of Christmas, the interior of the club was resplendent in yuletide finery. A striking red and gold theme, making good use of red ornaments, gold-sprayed pine cones and red on gold stars, was the decor. The snow sprayed green tree in the main foyer was predominantly gold in decoration, while in the big lounge the splendid, huge tree with multi-colored lights from top to bottom, was mostly red intermingled with the gold cones.

DECORATIONS

The dining room tables were laden with gaily wrapped presents and centered with lovely white candle groups based on circles of gold and held in place with red, green and silver balls.

Mrs. Kerlin, to the delight of the assemblage, had another of her traditional "Dear Gussie" letters to read and Mrs. Latno was presented an engraved gold charm as a token of affection from her board and members of the golfing section.

Mrs. Richard Fuite was chairman of the affair and was assisted by Mesdames Kerlin, Boegershausen and Ernest Fairey.

Saivage Shop Will Close Week Dec. 22

Better do your Christmas shopping early this year if you are planning to buy at the Village Salvage Shop in Tiburon for the volunteer staff is taking a vacation the week of Dec. 22, Mrs. John Ericson, governing board chairman announces. The shop will also be closed on New Year's Day.

Donated especially for the holidays have been many brand-new gift items and party clothes as well as Christmas decorations, according to shop manager, Mrs. Carl Lanus. Bargain sale of ski clothes will start on Dec. 30 when the shop reopens, with St. Stephen's Guild staffing.

Personnel changes are also being announced. Mrs. Frank King and Mrs. Michael Hamovitch have joined the pricing committee and Mrs. Elmer Boyden will be the alternate representative of the Southern Marin Recreation Center to the governing board which will hold its monthly meetings starting in January in Whitaker Hall at St. Stephen's Church. The board has previously met at the Recreation Center.

Following its policy of sharing surplus contributions with other charitable groups, the governing board has donated a large quantity of woolen clothing to the Bishop's Drive of the Roman Catholic Church for distribution in underprivileged areas.

A dividend of $100 for each of the five partners was declared by the board for November.

Nancy's dress of Chantilly lace over satin was designed with a scoop neckline and long sleeves. Both the neck and hemline were scalloped. Her fingertip length veil fell from a satin coronet trimmed with orange blossoms and she carried white carnations. The bride was given in marriage by her father, George E. Bolles of Mill Valley.

Adler Speaks To Nursery School Group

"What should we do about a three-year-old who refuses to eat meat and vegetables?"

"How much aggression should be tolerated in a small child?"

"What about discipline for a four-year-old child?"

These were typical questions asked Dr. Nathan Adler, Bay Area consulting psychologist, by a group of parents at the Sausalito Nursery School recently.

Dr. Adler grouped all of the questions into three categories—those dealing with problems of food, aggression, and discipline.

Many feeding problems would not arise if it were a simple matter of furnishing a well-balanced diet for a hungry child. But, Dr. Adler stated, food has other connotations than the satisfaction of hunger. Often food is a battlefield where a war of wills between parent and child is waged. The child, whose tools to manage defiance are limited, can assert his will, by not eating when or what the parent wants him to eat. Feeding problems arise also because parents make food the scene of their responsibility to socialize the child. We want the child not only to eat, but to behave while he's eating, and often parents expect their child of five to behave like a person of twenty at table. Often, if a child refuses to eat, his meaning in not eating is not understood by adults. Once we know the child's meaning, we can begin to deal with the problem. In general, Dr. Adler recommends that effort should be made not to make the dinner table a battlefield, but rather to have it be a situation where the family comes together to share their experiences.

In speaking about aggression in children, Dr. Adler pointed out that the experienced of a child are as beads on a string—each bead a separate experience growing into one organization, the self. When a child is in a phase of growth, there is a struggle going on within him. He is in a state of disequilibrium and he is negative, he is aggressive. When he has mastered this particular phase of growth, he is comfortable and his equilibrium is restored until his next phase of growth. To know how much aggression should be permitted in a child, Dr. Adler would want to know the particular child, and what is happening to him at that particular time.

Speaking of discipline, Dr. Adler stated that the words discipline and disciple contain the same root, and that children need models, not restrictions, for their identity to grow. Although limits must be set, if discipline is too arbitrarily imposed, the child either fights back, or becomes timid and shy because he doesn't know how to deal with his aggression.

with cards at 8:15 p.m. Committee members are Mesdames John Ludke, James Rhoades, and Grace Woolbridge. Serving will be H. A. McKay, Al Hughes and Clifford Spinney.

AT RECEPTION

Levant Brown III, Bride Are Feted

The nuptial motif predominated in decorations at the reception, given by the Levant Browns II at their home in Ross Saturday afternoon, honoring their son, Levant Brown III, and his bride, the former Adelaide Smith Patterson. At either side of the receiving line, which formed in front of the living room fireplace, were tall standards filled with white chrysanthemums. Many candles cast a soft light throughout the rooms.

A large wedding cake, topped with fresh lilies of the valley, centered the dining room table and white Fuji chrysanthemums were on the sideboard. Punch was served in the library and at either side of the bowl were pots of maiden hair fern.

The bride, the bridegroom's mother and his sister, Mrs. Sheridan Brown Rowe wore the gowns they chose for the wedding which took place at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Pedersen in Waterloo, Ia., on Nov. 30. The bride wore a smoke blue peau de soie gown with a lace bodice and white orchids were in her corsage. The senior Mrs. Brown was gownned in champagne colored peau de soie trimmed with lace. Mrs. Rowe's gown was blue chiffon. She and her mother had corsages of pale pink orchids.

Assisting in welcoming guests was a group of long time friends of the hosts, Mesdames Raymond Hill, Bruce Cornwall, Charles P. Carruthers, William Booth and George Mayo. The latter with her husband, Col. Mayo, came from their home in St. Helena for the reception as he and the host visited with old friends.

Mrs. Ralph W. Palmer, who arrived with her daughter, Sue, was telling of her Christmas plans. She left the following day for Colombia to spend the holidays with her son-in-law and daughter, the William Breedings Jr., and their children. Also noted among the guests (there were about 150 of them) were Messrs. and Mesdames Robertson Palmer, Hugh Carruthers, Paul Foster Jr., Sanford Paganucci, Frank Boyer, the Ned Griffiths, Milen Griffiths, Russell Smiths, Frank Straffords, John Witter, Mesdames Norman B. Livermore, Edna Halloran, Harry D. Johnson and Miss Elsa Korbel. The newlywed Browns are residing in Oakland.

Christmas Theme Of Talks Given At Toastmistress Club

A Christmas version of "Musical Chairs" sung to the tune of Jingle Bells provided gaiety at the pre-holiday dinner meeting of Marin Toastmistress Club 651 Thursday night at the Blue Rock Hotel in Larkspur. Wrapped gifts were passed swiftly from hand to hand as the music played and at the word "stop" each gift was held and a one minute speech of thanks was given by the recipient to the donor.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Hortense Buck, president, with the salute to the flag and opening thought given by Mrs. Elsie Meagor. Theme for the meeting was "The Origin of Christmas Traditions." Mrs. Mary Ford, toastmistress for the evening, introduced Dr. Betty Fawcett, who spoke on "The Yule Log." Mrs. Emily O'Dell Riley talked about the poinsettia, using as the basis a book review of "The Christmas Flower" by Joseph Henry Jackson. Mrs. Zella Wessell, who talked on "Christmas Carols," ended her speech with a plea for universal brotherhood. All three gave spiritual connotations to their messages. Mrs. Wessell was voted the silver cup for the best speech of the evening, and Mrs. Elsie Meagor made the presentation. Mrs. Buck was topic mistress. Evaluators were Mesdames Rayma Armstrong, Virginia Hotchin and Minnie Warren. Mrs. Rose Paul was general evaluator for the evening.

Closing the meeting, Mrs. Armstrong read this poem: "There will be no peace until there is justice; No justice until there is understanding; There will be no understanding until there is honesty; There will be no honesty until there is humanity; There will be no humanity until there is intelligence; And there will be no intelligence until there is love."

Camp Fire Girls To Sing Carols

The Busy Blue Birds, third grade pupils at Greenbrae School, recently entertained a Brownie troop, also third grade, Greenbrae School. The afternoon was a festive party. Sound movies were shown to the girls, refreshments baked and prepared by the Blue Birds were served, and dancing and games completed the afternoon program.

The group, under the leadership of Mrs. Hugh Marchant, assisted by Mrs. R. J. Murphy, is joining with the Sioux Blue Birds, third graders at Adeline E. Kent School, in rehearsing Christmas carols, which they plan to perform Dec. 19 at a local convalescent home.

The two groups are meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles O. Jones, Kent Woodlands, for rehearsals. Mrs. Maurice Salomon is the leader of the Sioux Blue Birds.

LUNCH GIVEN AS FAREWELL

Honoring Mrs. William R. Thele, Mrs. Richard E. Mittelstaedt entertained at a luncheon last week at her home in Greenbrae. Mr. and Mrs. Thele, whose home was in Illinois, have been residing for the past 10 years in Greenbrae. They are now moving to Fullerton where their daughter, Mrs. Erik Voss, her husband and four children reside.

Guests at the luncheon were members of a canasta group to which the hostess and Mrs. Thele belong. Attending were Mesdames George H. Beine, Nina White, Miller W. Young and Clarence A. Phillips. Mrs. Lloyd Smith was unable to attend.

Christmas Card Display, Santa Good Opportunity For Ingenuity

If you are bored with the old routine way of displaying Christmas cards in your home, consider putting your ingenuity to work to make a Christmas card holder that may be stored away and used each year.

Take your choice of the lone style, patterned after the lines of a butler's pull. Or create a Jolly Santa that will hold considerably more cards, and will live up entrance or living room.

To make the Noel card holder cut a piece of felt 55 inches long, 5 inches wide. Make a stylized angel, transferring it to the felt. Cut 5 five-inch squares of felt. Decorate each of 5 squares with scattered stars. These will form the pockets for the cards. Make stars with the decorator attachment set for the icicle stitch. Form one complete stitch pattern. At the last stitch, lift the presser bar, pivot the fabric slightly, lower the presser bar and make another complete stitch pattern. Continue until a star is former.

Paste a colored stone in the center of each to add a touch of holiday sparkle.

Baste pockets one above the other on the outline of the angel, starting at the bottom. Use under or top braider to stitch outline of the angel using gold soutache braid. This stitching should hold the pockets in place. Put a couple of button holders at the top of the felt after turning the top down about an inch. Run soutache gold through it and tie in bow. If the holder needs more body, put a strip of buckram, wire or a pencil at the top to hold in shape.

JOLLY SANTA HOLDER
A free-form Santa doesn't need a pattern. A large circle can form the body, a smaller circle placed on top forms the head. The arms are two "bumps" drawn on either side of the circle. A cap is placed on the top circle and two boots

SANTA CARD Holder is jolly as well as useful, come Christmas.

THE NOEL CARD Holder is a slim model for conservative types.

extend at angles at the bottom. Red felt goes to body and cap, black is good for boots and belt, pink felt is for the face, and odd scraps of colored felt may be used for eyes, nose and mouth. His beard, cap and boot edging, and tassel are made of white outing flannel.

Cut a piece of red felt that is the size of half of the body circle. Trim the top edge in a moon shape. Cut a 1-inch wide piece of black felt to fit this edge and baste into place to form belt. Now place a piece of tarlatan or other heavy backing in back of this pocket section. Set decorator attachment to arrowhead stitch, making a line of stitching down the center of the belt section, following the line of the belt. Make two lines of stitching on either side of this with the "blind stitch" pattern of the automatic decorator. Using this same combination of stitches, make 3 verticle design lines in the center of the large circle in the same pattern stitch.

POCKET SECTION
This pocket section may now be placed on Santa's body by basting it. Applique body, head, cap and boots on a piece of heavy backing material. Zigzag eyes, nose, mouth and moustache on to head. Cut white outing flannel into 1 1/2 inch strips. Hem both edges with narrow hemmer. Place strips between two blades of the ruffler so stitching will be a center of strip, and gather.

Stitch finished ruffles in rows to fill in beard, a top of boots, and around cap. Form tassel from remaining ruffles. Bend a wire hanger to go across Santa's back and extend up into the head portion. Hand tack into place. This helps to keep Santa sturdy. Tie a ribbon to the top of the hanger.

Whirlaways Plan Holiday Dance Tomorrow Eve

Society Of Artists Plans Holiday Party

A blending of New and Old World traditions will be enjoyed by artists and their friends who gather for the Marin Society of Artists Christmas party on Friday evening, Dec. 19, at 8 o'clock.

For the occasion, the Frances Young Art Gallery at the Marin Art and Garden Center is being festooned with greenery and decorated with a large tree at one end and a lovely stained glass window, made by member Mrs. Ed Rucker, at the other.

Mrs. Arthur Ralston, president of the group, promises a delightful evening for all, commencing with a program of Christmas music by the 40-member chancel choir of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo under the direction of Wilbur Russell. Also under Russell's direction will be the unique entertainment provided by another group known as the Coral Bells of Marin, who perform on special bells imported from Denmark. Later in the evening a gift exchange will take place with a very American Santa Claus presiding. This bearded gentleman who is better known to Society members as Seth Wood, noted Sausalito jeweler, is no doubt the only Santa Claus in the county who sports his own beard.

Perhaps the most truly Old World portion of the evening will be the presentation of the Santa Lucia Festival of Lights conducted by Valborg "Mama" Gravander. In this Christian adaptation of the ancient Viking mid-winter ceremony, Britta Ervall, mezzo soprano, takes the part of Santa Lucia. For her role, Miss Ervall wears a headdress of lighted candles as she sings and offers special Swedish cookies to the guests. Assisting "Mama" and Miss Ervall at the Wassail bowl will be Marianne Rauschnabel and Kamma Zethraus with their own national specialties in the way of Christmas cookies and cakes.

ROSS P.O. GETS THE BIRD—MIGHTY FINE ONE

The American eagle is traditional ornamentation for a post office. Most post office buildings get a plaster version of the national bird. But when Ross's new post office was built this year, residents decided it should have something better. Roger Hooper, architect of the building, raised $500 by popular subscription, and the Town of Ross contributed another $100 to buy a brass and wrought iron eagle for the building's facade. Here, Postmaster John Malarin proudly surveys the newly installed bird.

Kids To Get Christmas Fire Warning

Three thousand children in San Rafael will get graphic reminders this week to be especially careful with fire during the Christmas holidays.
 Gene O'Connor, local agent of the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., announced today he will distribute gold colored safety tags in the shape of a six-inch ruler carrying seven simple rules for fire prevention. The safety tags and the Junior Fire Marshal magazines will be given to all students in San Rafael's parochial and public schools.

Fire Chief C. M. Johansen and Capt. Virgilio Cheda of the Fire Prevention Bureau will handle the distribution of the tags and magazines to classrooms this week.
 The safety tag, entitled "A Golden Rule for a Happy Yule," lists these precautions:
 Stand Christmas tree in water or bucket of wet sand; check tree lights for frayed wire and loose sockets; keep tree away from radiator, fire-place and doors; use only fire-resistant decorations; turn off lights when you go out; keep gift wrappings and electric trains away from tree; when needles start to fall, remove the tree from the house.
 The magazine, published by the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., features articles about celebration of Christmas around the world, the growth of fire-fighting in America, and how to make fire resistant decorations using spaghetti and macaroni instead of the more commonly used flammable materials.

 A public meeting on these findings will be held soon, White said.

Brown Plans To Replace Munro

SACRAMENTO (UP) — Russell S. Munro, director of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Department since its inception in 1955, has been told he won't be reappointed.
 Democratic Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown conferred with the Republican director yesterday and told him he would be replaced, but probably not until after Jan. 1.

Munro has civil service status as deputy director of public works, a post he held until he was named to head the Alcoholic Beverage Control Department in 1955.
 Asked about his future plans, Munro said: "I don't know what I'll do."

Doc Clipped These Christmas Stories From Papers Last Year

Here's some mournful reading. I clipped these reports from the papers after Christmas last year.

"Linda D., 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.S.D., was accidentally shot and killed yesterday afternoon while sitting in her brother's bedroom. Her brother, 12, was showing her a gun his father had given him for Christmas. He pointed the weapon at her, and pulled the trigger. The bullet went through her heart. He said afterward he was just playing, and didn't know the gun was loaded."

"Little Maria M., aged 4, suffered two broken legs yesterday when she fell under the wheels of a car driven by Mr. L.Y.B. He said he saw the child riding on her new skates on the sidewalk, parallel to his car. She fell, and rolled into the street. The driver was not held."

"Larry R., 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L.T.R., was killed at 3 p.m. yesterday when his bicycle struck a bus. The bus driver said the boy appeared to lose control of his bike coming down the driveway of his home. He was thrown under the wheels and died instantly. The bicycle was a Christmas present."

Did you see those reports? Or others like them? They appear each year.

Why do I print them now? To remind you that Christmas presents can be lethal. Other things equal, give safe presents. But if you do give a risky present, take time to teach your child to use it. Don't let him experiment without you. Guide him. Control him. Make sure his practicing is done in a safe place. Don't let your child be on the 1958 Christmas casualty list!

Midwest Warms Up

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The midcontinent got a little relief today from the unseasonable cold and heavy snow. But there wasn't any immediate break in the prewinter cold wave in the East and South.

The warming trend, from the Continental Divide into the Midwest, followed more than a week of zero cold and snow. However, temperatures generally were below seasonal levels in most areas and snow was in prospect in Northern sections.

It was colder in much of the East and South and more snow piled on top of already snow-covered areas.

Prohibition Party Dropped From Ballot

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The California Prohibition Party, which would have been 84 years old on its next birthday, was officially dead today.

The party actually expired at the polls Nov. 4, but the death certificate remained unsigned until yesterday.

Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan issued his official declaration of the general election vote and announced that the dry party had been disqualified from the ballot in California.

Rev. Mel J. Miller, Azusa minister and Prohibition candidate for secretary of state, failed to poll at least 3 per cent of the total vote. The only dry candidate for a statewide office, Miller was credited with 129,140 votes.

RECORD TURNOUT

Jordan's official certification also showed that a record non-presidential year turnout of 5,366,053 voters went to the polls. They comprised 79.47 per cent of the state's total of 6,752,421 registered voters.

Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown, the official count showed, defeated his Republican opponent, Sen. William F. Knowland, by 1,029,165 votes.

The closest statewide race indicated in the report was between Alan Cranston and incumbent Republican Robert C. Kirkwood for the controller's office. Cranston edged out Kirkwood by 31,523 votes—a margin of less than a half of 1 per cent of the total vote cast.

MOSK HIGHEST

PRISON INDUSTRY

Law-Abiding Smokers Don't Use Bonanzas

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Chances are you've never smoked a Bonanza cigarette even though they're made right here in California.

If you stay on the right side of the law, chances are you never will smoke one.

Bonanza cigarettes, pipe and chewing tobaccos are made by inmates of the California Men's Colony at Los Padres near San Luis Obispo. The output is only for prisoners.

The Los Padres factory turns out all of the tobacco that is used in California prisons, as well as most that is issued to local jails.

The plant was moved recently from San Quentin, where it had operated since 1942.

It not only keeps 90 inmates busy, it's also an aid to Corrections officials in another way — it cuts down bartering and gambling among the inmates.

Father Faces Court For Child-Beating

A San Rafael truck driver is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court tomorrow afternoon on a charge of stopping his 8-year-old son with a belt to make the youngster mind the teacher.

William S. Jacinth Jr. of 1417 Second street is charged with inflicting "unjustifiable physical pain" on Michael Albert Jacinth last Nov. 19.

The boy's stepmother brought him to Marin Juvenile Hall on Nov. 19. Juvenile Hall officials noticed the boy's back and buttocks covered with black and blue marks and notified the district attorney.

Weissich explained he feels parents have a right to discipline their children, but in this case, the punishment appears unduly severe.

At Juvenile Hall, the boy said he did not finish his school work. His father heard about it and used a belt on his back, warning him to mind the teacher hereafter.

Police said the boy is a diabetic and has been in trouble before for stealing candy.

Peninsula Lions Plan Yule Party

David Kamp, Jr., president, announced that St. Nick will distribute gifts and refreshments will be served.

ATTRACTION STAFF

Heading up Brown's clerical staff are Meredith Burch and Ann Bair, both of whom worked in the Brown campaign. Meredith, an attractive blonde, is a Democratic Party worker who worked in Los Angeles for the Adlai Stevenson campaign in 1956, then began work on the Brown campaign even before he announced what office he was going to seek. Ann, just as attractive a brunette, is Dutton's secretary.

While Brown and much of his executive staff still spend most of their time in San Francisco and Los Angeles, the political correspondence load of his incoming administration is centered here.

Other members of the executive staff, working on the necessary background information for Brown's inaugural address, are staying here and are working partially out of the offices of various Democratic legislators.

INTO GOVERNOR'S SUITE

Come January, Brown and his staff will move into the governor's suite in the state capitol. There they will have 29 offices surrounding an open, landscaped courtyard.

There outgoing Gov. Goodwin J. Knight now operates the state government with 10 executive secretaries and 42 female secretarial employees. Little by little, they now are cleaning files in preparation to moving out.

Fairfax Native Sons Plan Christmas Party

Fairfax Parlor 307, Native Sons of the Golden West, will hold its Christmas party for members, their children and friends, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Fairfax Women's Club on Park road.

Santa Claus will visit the party with gifts for the children. There will be a puppet show for the youngsters and entertainment and refreshments for adults, according to chairman Larry Benjamin.

By JERRY REYNOLDS
SACRAMENTO (UP)—A man a lot of people think may be Santa Claus has opened for business here.

Every day he receives stacks of letters, literally hundreds of them, much as the real St. Nicholas must.

His name is Gov.-elect Edmund G. Brown. The letters are from people trying to make arrangements for one of the thousands of jobs in his new Democratic administration.

Brown opened a two-room office in the Senator Hotel here two weeks ago. At the beginning, Brown's executive secretary, Frederick Dutton, sat on the floor to answer telephones while furniture was being gathered.

BUSFULS OF BOXES
His small office staff likewise sat on the floor opening and answering cardboard boxes full of letters sent here from Brown's San Francisco office by bus.

Now Brown has a five-room suite of offices—all fully furnished—in the hotel. But even now, when all nine executive secretaries and eight clerical workers are on hand, the suite appears crowded and chaotic.

Brown's gigantic correspondence file, the biggest crush of business so far in his preparations to take office Jan. 5, covers three main categories:

JOB APPLICATIONS
The first and by far the largest is the job applications and letters recommending other persons for jobs. Most are serious and logical missives, but a few verge on the ridiculous.

One message, typed on a gaudy post card, asked Brown to rise above partisan politics and appoint a well-known backer of GOP Sen. William F. Knowland to the high post of director of the state department of public works. The message was signed only "A Democrat."

Other letters cover a wide range of job requests and recommendations. Some cover the highest posts ranging up to $20,000 a year department heads. Some ask for jobs in the security guard, which is furnished by the state police, and in the domestic staff in the governor's mansion.

Still others include requests of Brown to make speeches, invitations to various functions and general correspondence which includes lots of congratulations and advice.

Stinson Beach Nativity Play To Be Repeated

The Stinson Beach outdoor nativity pageant, an event that is well on its way to becoming a tradition, will take place at 8 p.m. Saturday in front of the Stinson Beach Community Center building.

The audience will sit outdoors on a blocked-off street of the seaside community. Scenes of the first Christmas are to be pantomimed on the porch of the community building. The Star of Bethlehem will be on its roof, illuminated by floodlights. The three Wise Men and shepherds will approach the porch from the ground below.

The pageant is being presented for the ninth year. It will be directed by Anne Leary, Barbara Shersey and Marna Grissin. Dulce O'Neill is in charge of costuming and make-up. Director of a 23-voice choir will be Auda Bordanaro. Reader will be Rev. Frank Humbberger, pastor of the Stinson Beach Presbyterian Church. In charge of lighting will be William Shersey and Lester B. Sadler Jr.

Members of the Church-Teens, a Stinson Beach teenage group, are taking most of the character parts and comprise a large part of the choir.

The Stinson Beach Community Center building and adjoining firehouse are the first two units of a community center constructed by volunteer labor and dedicated debt-free to the community. A chapel, the third and final unit, is planned for next year.

Kapranos Will Design 1959 Art, Garden Fair

William L. Kapranos, San Rafael landscape architect, will design the 1959 Marin Art and Garden Fair, to be held July 1-6 in Ross.

Board members of the Marin Art and Garden Center, who present the show for the county, and who act as a volunteer fair committee, selected Kapranos, who was manager-designer of the 1951 and 1952 fairs.

James S. Goodale of San Rafael, committee chairman, announced that Mrs. Marcelle B. McCloy of San Anselmo will again manage the annual event.

Serving on the steering committee with Goodale are Herman E. Hein, Mill Valley landscape architect, and Richard F. Tyler, San Rafael, public accountant.

Kapranos, a resident of San Rafael with offices in San Anselmo, is a native of Marin County. He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in landscape architecture and design. For four years he has taught these subjects at Santa Rosa Junior College in the adult education program.

Active in the San Anselmo Rotary Club, Kapranos is also a member of the California Assn. of Landscape Architects and a fellow of the American Institute of Park Executives.

Plans for the 15th edition of

WILLIAM L. KAPRANOS
To design '59 fair

the fair, according to Kapranos, include a return to emphasis on intimate exhibits by amateur garden groups, contemporary floral and art displays, as well as the spectacular outdoor living displays by Bay Area nurserymen.

The theme and design of the summer show will be announced soon after the first of the year, Kapranos said.

Hospital Gets New Nursing Supervisor

Appointment of Mrs. Estelle A. McCall as superintendent of nurses at San Rafael General Hospital was announced today by John K. Taylor, administrator.

Mrs. McCall began her duties yesterday, succeeding Mrs. Jean Casarotti, who has been acting superintendent and will now resume her permanent position as assistant superintendent.

Mrs. McCall and her husband, J. Norman McCall, California residents for 10 years, moved to San Rafael last week. She was introduced to employees at a tea Sunday arranged by the hospital auxiliary.

A native of Ohio, Mrs. McCall received her nurse's training at the Petoskey, Mich., General Hospital, and did graduate work at University of Michigan. She has served at hospitals in the U. S., in Japan; Shanghai, China; and Honolulu. During World War II she helped to plan and organize three 100-bed hospitals in the Hawaiian islands.

Administrator Taylor said the new superintendent will organize an in-service training program at San Rafael General Hospital after the first of the year.

San Rafael Senior Cleared Of Charge In Drag Race Case

Robert R. Sovulewski, 18-year-old San Rafael High School senior, was cleared yesterday of the charge of unlawful assembly to watch a drag race in San Geronimo last Nov. 4.

He was one of 20 youths caught by highway patrolmen and charged with unlawful assembly to watch a hot rod race.

Sovulewski, defending himself, testified he and a friend had seen a patrol car headed toward San Anselmo on the Miracle Mile that night. Therefore, he said, he drove toward San Anselmo and Fairfax to see what was going on. He said he had heard that drag races were held occasionally in or near Woodacre but had never seen one there before.

KEYS LIFTED

Sovulewski said that just as he drove up to the assembly spot, he noticed people milling about. Patrolmen came up and took his keys away.

Officer Arthur Olson of the highway patrol said he drove by the Miracle Mile and set up a road block at White's Hill for about 10 minutes. During that time, about four "family" cars were allowed to go by the road block, but no juveniles drove by.

CONSIDERABLE DOUBT

Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court pointed out there was considerable doubt that Sovulewski had participated in the unlawful assembly. He ruled in favor of the youth because the youth could well have driven up after the race was over and been caught in the roundup.

Of the 20 youths charged, 10 were turned over to juvenile court, seven pleaded guilty and were fined. The cases of two are still pending.

Peak Period Of Delinquency Coming Up

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Warning to parents of boys 15 to 17: Look out, the next few months are the peak period of delinquency.

Heman G. Stark, director of the California Youth Authority, says the period between Christmas and May is the worst of the year for juvenile offenses—especially among boys 15 to 17.

Referring to a report that shows one of every four 17-year-old boys in the state was arrested last year, Stark said:

"This is the impact I hope this report will have: This is where parents need to be concerned.

"Look out, if you have a boy 15 to 17. You need to be as close to him as possible, especially in the peak delinquency period that runs after Christmas until May.

"Find out when he goes out, where he goes, who he goes with and what the program is."

Reasons for the rise in offenses during this time of the year, Stark said, are that fewer part-time jobs are available, more police and school officers are on duty, there are no camps for boys to go to and families don't spend as much time together as they do in the summer.

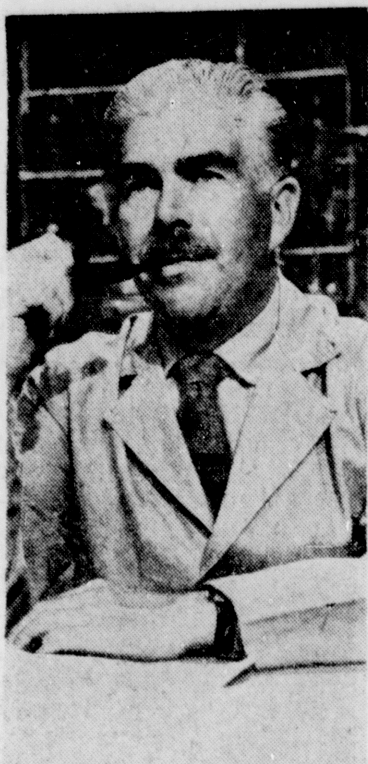

Stark said the report breaking down juvenile arrests by age groups came as no surprise.

"We've suspected it for a long time. This is just the first time anybody has dug up the facts."

He said there is almost no delinquency up to 10, and little from 10 to 15, but 15 to 17 is the danger period.

The report was compiled by Ronald Beattie, chief statistician for the attorney general. It shows that arrests of 17-year-old boys in 1957 totaled 35.7 per cent of the total boy population that age. At least one in four was arrested more than once, however, Beattie said.

There are about 40,000 individual companies in the U.S. which supply the nation's homes, businesses and factories with fuel oil for heating.

TOM GROODY
Scientist heads campaign

Accordionists May Accompany Carols

Accordion music this year may be added to the Christmas caroling on Florence avenue in San Anselmo.

The third annual event by residents of the street is set for Friday night, committee chairman Joseph P. Henneberry announced today.

Display signs on the street are being prepared by Ed Cantwell, professional window display man. Jack Coffey is supplying two flood lights from the tugboat company of which he is superintendent. Mothers will furnish cookies and coffee. General contractor LeRoy Currey, as Santa Claus, will distribute toys to the children following the singing.

Henneberry said he is trying to round up an accordionist to accompany the singers.

Dr. Groody To Head Marin Cancer Crusade

Dr. Tom Groody of Strawberry, originator of the "Science in Action" television series, has been named chairman of the 1959 Marin County Cancer Crusade.

The appointment was announced by Mrs. Robertson Ward, president of the Marin branch, American Cancer Society. Goal of next year's local drive is $25,000 or more for the national society's program of education, service and research.

Dr. Groody, who recently completed a new TV film series, "Science Capsules," has, for three successive years, received the Northern California Academy of Television award as outstanding male TV personality. The academy acclaimed him for popularizing science by creating programs understandable to the layman.

In 1952, '53 and '54, Dr. Groody was chosen as television's "man of the year" by the San Francisco Examiner. Locally, he serves as consultant in science education to the 3-R School in San Rafael.

Dr. Groody was chairman of this year's cancer society fund drive in Strawberry.

"This personal background with our local society adds to his already tremendous value as crusade chairman," Mrs. Ward said.

The "hurst" at the end of a name of a village or town means that plenty of trees are in the vicinity.

Fact Sheet In Works On School Merger Plan

How taxes would be affected by unification of the Novato and San Jose School Districts is one of several questions which the newly formed San Jose-Novato Unification Fact Finding Committee hopes to answer, it was announced today.

The committee, formed without fanfare a month ago, has met with administrators of both districts in an attempt to prepare a "fact sheet" on the issue, to be sent to all registered voters in the two districts about a week before the special unification election Jan. 13, committee member Fred Pechner reported today.

"We are trying to make as factual and as unbiased as possible," he said. "The committee includes both opponents and proponents of the issue, and we will make no recommendation either for or against the issue."

The committee is independent of the Novato Advisory Council on Education, he said.

Pechner and Dr. Earl Siegel of the Novato district, and Mrs. Arthur C. Painter and M/Sgt. William E. Linn of the San Jose district make up the committee.

Besides taxes, the group will present information on housing needs, projected student population, split-day sessions, transportation needs, classroom loads, library facilities and student population in relation to school locations.

Among the facts already assembled by the committee, Pechner said, are that a unified district would mean that there would be one seven-man board of trustees, to be elected sometime after the Jan. 13 election, and that there would be a single administration for all grades, kindergarten through high school.

In order for the proposed unification to take place, he said, a majority vote in each of the two districts is necessary. A new board of trustees would take office as of next July 1, he added.

West End Library, Classroom Ready

A spanking new classroom and library addition to West End School in San Rafael will be shown to parents following the school's Christmas program at 1:15 p.m. Thursday.

The $30,242 addition was completed last week. The new classroom will allow West End kindergartners to move from Sun Valley School to their own neighborhood.

When children return to school on Jan. 5, Mrs. Phyllis Hanna will teach a morning kindergarten session at West End School and in the afternoon will go to Sun Valley School to teach the afternoon kindergarten class. The Sun Valley class will have three pupils transferred from Short School kindergarten.
